

GENOA HAS NEW INDUSTRY

A. A. Stiles and C. Maderer Proprietors of Chicken Hatcheries

WORK WITH THE FARMERS

One of Largest Hatcheries in This Part of the Country—Capacity of 11,000 Baby Chicks per Week

The latest addition to the industries of Genoa are the Genoa Quality Hatcheries owned and operated by SA. A. Stiles and Chas. Maderer with capacity of 11,000 baby chicks per week from three huge incubators hold 11,000 eggs each.

In a short interview with the proprietors they stated that they desire to work hand in hand with the farmer at all times. They will buy the eggs from the farmers of the surrounding community and in return sell them the chicks if they so desire. Altho, they state, that their entire output of chicks is sold for this year to a big eastern concern, they will be able to accommodate home patronage.

The farmers may buy these chicks back at the wholesale prices at all times. Any medical advice that can be given to the people of this vicinity on the raising of chickens will be given free and they will have access at all times to the best books on poultry raising that can be purchased.

This firm also markets the poultry of farmers at the highest market prices. It being the object of the firm to assist them in every manner; but their specialty will be baby chicks.

The incubators, of which there are three, are huge cube shaped inclosures containing room for 11,000 eggs, heating apparatus and fans to distribute the air evenly.

The first week in February will be an open house for this concern and they will gladly show the entire plant to any one so desiring.

Mr. Maderer is an old hand at the poultry game having been general manager for the state's poultry farm, the largest in the state, for a number of years.

At the bottom of this page is a picture of one of the incubators as it would look with the sides removed and it surely shows what a large construction it really is.

How many apples did Adam and Eve eat?

Some say Eve eight and Adam two—a total of ten only.

Now we figure the thing out far differently: Eve eight and Adam eight also—total 16.

We think the above figures are entirely wrong.

If Eve eight and Adam 82, certainly the total will be 90.

Scientific men, however, on the strength of the theory that the anti-diluvians were giants, reason something like this: Eve 81 and Adam 82—total 163.

Wrong again. What could be clearer than if Eve 81 and Adam 812 the total was 893?

I believe the following to be the true solution: Eve 814 Adam and Adam 814 Eve—8938.

Still another calculation is as follows: If Eve 814 Adam, Adam 81242 oblige Eve, total 82056—Exchange.

THIEVES WERE AT WORK

Kingston People Report Loss of Articles During Recent Search

It is said that Kingston folks, knowing that the human element still prevails among people, also know that there are still a few remaining thieves in the world at large.

During the ten day search carried on at Kingston for the bodies of Isabelle Kiefer and Roger Brown, men from other communities, who came there to work, lost automobile accessories, and wearing apparel.

Three or four spare auto tires, all of them new, two coats, and many articles of clothing were reported as lost or stolen.

At the time, the entire community at the river, gave little thought to the possibility of the presence of persons so low morally as to steal, and no special watch had been arranged for the occasion.

The people of the Kingston community are very sorry indeed that their benefactors should lose property at the hands of persons of this calibre.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

How about the good resolution you made to begin the year right and "Go To Church"? There has been a fine response and yet many have not responded to the call of duty or co-operated in this good movement. We live in a day when many unkind things are said about the church. But after all it is the best teacher of righteousness and the best builder of morals and upright character that we have in the community.

And just while we are talking of the church and our community we again appeal to the business men of Genoa to co-operate and attend some church in Genoa. What about fellows who attached their names to the business men's advertisement which appeared in two editions of the Genoa Republican. We who are laboring to maintain the Christian churches in Genoa feel that while we are boosting the churches we are advertising the town and its business and no man has done his whole duty in just signing his name to the paper circulated. There are some folks in Genoa who by their attitude if not by word of mouth seem to say to those who are co-operating in the "Go To Church Campaign," we are not cooperating, we do not believe the church is of any worth in our town? Go boost the churches of some other town and therefore its business. Now we mean the church is back of every movement for the good of your fellow citizens and the town of Genoa. The church is not ashamed of her record for she is the first and last in every charitable, philanthropic and civic movement. So throw away your hammer, do your duty to yourself, your family and community by cooperating in this "Go To Church Movement" by attending some church in Genoa.

Come and find a place in our Sunday school. You will enjoy the session. The Epworth League especially invites the young people to join in the interesting study, "John Wesley Jr."

The pastor expects to begin evangelistic services Sunday, February 12.

Rev. Robeson, pastor.

DEKALB CHILDREN HELP

Sunday school children connected with the First Baptist Church of DeKalb have expressed their sympathy for the helpless orphans in Bible lands by contributing $124.90 toward their support through the Near East Relief. A letter acknowledging the gift was sent from the Illinois headquarters of the society to the Rev. William B. Yard, pastor of the church in DeKalb.

DEAN DAVENPORT MAKES STATEMENT

Flays The Organizations That Are Pretending to Help Farmers

SAYS COMMITTEES ARE SELFISH

In a Long Article Written for Breeder's Gazette He States Certain Organizations Hamper Farmers

The latest utterances by Dean Eugene Davenport on agriculture problems are well worth consideration. The head of the Illinois Agricultural College in an "End of the year commentary" printed in the Breeder's Gazette of December 29 makes an exhaustive review of agricultural organization activity recently, criticizing unsparingly the selfish group of agitators, asserting that they are "attempting to sell under false colors, if not indeed under the black flag." Their objects, he says, are so frankly selfish as to defeat themselves. He forecasts failure of other organization efforts "because they invariably invoke false notions of economic law." Probably Dean Davenport had in his mind such projects as co-operative selling agencies when writing this.

The Dean regrets that the "agitators, crack brains and self-appointed champions of agriculture, even those that never drew a furrow or fed a pig," had not herded together. Unfortunately, he says, some of the worst of the agitators and with them many of the right-minded but short-sighted advisors, have clustered around the better organizations. He contends that these elements have been responsible for the false theories of "cost-plus," price-fixing and price control, and the un-democratic idea that in some way or other we could avoid the individual or industrial consequences of war or else throw its burden on somebody else.

Dean Davenport points out the absurdity of attempting to set aside the fundamental principles of economics, adding: "We pay for all we have, and what we sow we shall also reap. In this great game of life and of business farmers are in the same boat with the rest of the world."

The whole trend of Dean Davenport's commentary in one of rebuke to those empirics who seek to enhance their own fortunes at the expense of the farmer by enticing him from his legitimate sphere of production to those of merchandising and manufacture. Such activities he terms "demagogic." In this connection he says: "While much can be accomplished by improved methods of marketing, yet upon the whole the methods are as good as they ever were, and their improvement at this point, while exceedingly important, will not restore war prices for corn and cattle, nor will they ensure the farmer against loss any more than can any other enterpriser expect to operate only for gain."

"Recognizing the hope of gain as the backbone of business enterprise, we may expect to find here and there places that should be smoothed out, even short-circuited, in the interest of public welfare, sometimes in the special interest of the producer and sometimes in that of the consumer."

"Therefore it is that co-operative marketing, which just now seems to be extremely popular, is to be regarded as an advance step, not as a panacea; nor is co-operative effort by organization likely to be able to take full care of all of us. The farmer of the future, as in the past, will be an individual enterpriser. He will both make and lose money, but in the interest of everybody these losses should be as few and as small as possible."

This may be interpreted as a rebuke to those who have heralded co-operative marketing as a panacea. Had Dean Davenport elaborated this phase of his commentary he could have told where co-operative marketing is practicable and where it is pre-ordained to failure, as in the sphere of live stock selling.

He lays emphasis on this when he says: "Farm bureaus will do well not to be diverted from the legitimate field of agricultural progress into dissipations of energy," adding that they are not selling organizations, and advising that they be active

A mass meeting, boosting E. E. Crawford (chief) for sheriff will be held in the Genoa Opera House on Monday evening, January 30. The business men of this city will hold a meeting this (Thursday) evening to arrange for the mass meeting Monday night.

Everyone come out Monday evening and help start a ball rolling that will sweep the county at election. We all know that Ed. has the support of the entire city and community, but we must all get together Monday night at 7:30 p. m. and boost.

Other towns will notice the unanimous support and fall in line to elect a real man for a man sized job. Now everyone be on hand Monday night. An entertainment of some sort will be provided and there will be something doing every minute.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Contributed by Students of the High School—John Dyer, Editor

Exams

The semester examinations were held Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, with the exception of domestic science and woodwork. Notebooks had to be in the day of examination, so a great deal of midnight oil was used all week. Thursday was the first day of the new semester.

Open House, Friday, January 20 The public enjoyed another open house at the new school Friday evening. In the early part of the evening some of the classes carried out departmental work. Mr. Waggoner's physics class performed the experiment of the inclined plane; the senior domestic science class made rice pudding, and Mrs. Snyder presided over a class in her room.

Following the departmental work, a program was given. The school, as well as the public was very much interested in this, as it was the first appearance of the freshman dramatic club. The short skit given by the freshman was enjoyed to the fullest extent and was written by Merle Erwin, teacher in the high school.

From the study hall the crowd flocked down to the gym, making one of the largest groups of fans this season. The boys showed their appreciation of the turn-out by playing a good game and ending with the long end of the score.

The Basket Ball Game

A large group of fans witnessed a victory for Genoa over Stillman Valley high school squad in the gym last Friday night. Genoa started off with the first score of the evening and ran up a good lead. Then the Valley boys rallied, tied the score and got a one-point lead by a free throw. In an instant one of the Genoa boys sank a ringer. Genoa maintained and steadily enlarged their lead. When the final whistle blew, the score stood Genoa 45 and Stillman Valley 30.

Wireless Set Installed

A wireless set has been installed in the high school laboratory. The various instruments were furnished by John Dyer and Franz Grams. Saturday the aerial was strung up on the roof of the building. Monday morning the weather report was caught from the station at Great Lakes.

Advice to Francis

Some students argue with their instructors and others have learned to say "Yes, sir" and "Yes, m'am."

In "securing better service and go along with their legitimate business."

Dean Davenport asserts that the internal problems of agriculture are those of production. While he does not say so in exact language, he evidently disapproves of the tendency of the radical element that has managed to acquire influence in farm organization circles to make excursions into foreign fields, paths that must lead to discredit and ultimate disorganization. This is obviously what he means when he says in conclusion: "It is a critical time now for all right minded agricultural organizations. The influences tending to divert them from their legitimate purpose are numerous and compelling.—National Live Stock Exchange.

CITIZENS APPRECIATE HELP

Board of Village of Kingston Sends the Following Letter

Kingston, Ill., January 23, 1922 To the citizens of Boone, Vinnebago, Kane, Ogle and DeKalb counties: In behalf of the people of Kingston and vicinity, I take this manner of expressing to you our sincere gratitude and heartfelt thanks for the untiring efforts, help and sympathy, given us by your people during the terrible tragedy that befell our little village and country. We could never have accomplished what we did in finding the little bodies of Isabelle and Roger had it not been for the united work of the men and women in these above mentioned counties. "In union there is strength" and this saying has proven sure, in more ways than one. We know we can never pay the great debt of gratitude we owe, but the little village on the Kishwaukee, will always be willing to do all in its power to extend a helping hand to those who helped us in our hour of sorrow. To those who gave of their strength in manual labor, to those who helped us financially, to each and every one, we express to you our gratefulness and sincere appreciation.

Sincerely Yours,

W. H. Bell,

President Village Board, Kingston, Ill

WARRANT FOR DR. OLMS

Hampshire Physician Charged With Laxity in Registering Births

A warrant for the arrest of Dr. F. Olms, of Hampshire, has been issued by George R. Thompson, police magistrate at the instance of Charles L. Blain, state's attorney charging the physician with failure to report certain births and deaths, in cases where he was the attending physician.

This action followed a formal complaint lodged against Dr. Olms this morning, by F. C. Blandin of Rutland, an accredited representative of the state health department. Mr. Blandin had been instructed by Dr. Isaacs D. Rawlings, director of the state health department, to make an investigation of the Dr. Olms case.

The facts placed before State's Attorney Abbott Tuesday morning included six births that the doctor had not registered.

LAW ENFORCEMENT "CONFAB"

In the city of DeKalb on Tuesday, February 7, there will be held a law enforcement and legislative conference, open to the public with an afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock, presided over by Rev. James O'May of Sycamore; a banquet in the evening at which Senator H. G. Wright will serve as toast master and a mass meeting at night at which Dr. J. Stanley Brown, Supt. of the Northern Illinois State Normal school, will preside. A list of noted speakers are on the program for each session of the conference. The public is cordially invited.

GARD OF THANKS

We wish we might see and personally thank each one of our many friends who have helped us so wonderfully in our recent sorrow.

This being impossible, we take this means of expressing our deep gratitude to each of you and the community as a whole.

REV. OLMSTEAD TO INDIA

Will Leave May 1—Has Charge of 300 Indian Villages

In a letter to the Republican, Rev. Clarence Olmstead, a former Genoa boy, says: "We are to have charge of the Thongwa (Burma) circuit, comprising about 300 villages, mostly non-Christian, spread over a large territory of as fertile land as God ever made; the Thongwa Anglo-Vernacular school, of about 150 boys with a staff of about ten Burmese teachers; and the Methodist School of Theology located at Thongwa, which we had been planning to make our main task."

"In addition to these things, we shall have to superintend the completion of a big new building for the Anglo-Vernacular school and get moved into it, and a new missionary residence for our use."

"This is our task in a community where there are not more than half a dozen other white people, and where only the Burmese language is spoken, a language we do not know at all. This means that in addition, we shall have to get busy at the language, spending if possible in study of it five hours a day for six days of the week for the first six months after our arrival on the field, with a little lighter schedule after that."

"I think we shall be kept out of mischief without doubt, and still be unable to do more than half of the job assigned to us. Really, there should be another married missionary to help carry this load."

"We expect to sail from San Francisco about the 1st of May."

The Republican extends congratulations to Rev. Olmstead for his rapid success and achievement in his missionary work. And we are quite confident that he will handle the whole job with ease.

GENOA LOSES TO KIRKLAND

The Genoa town team of basketball players traveled over to Kirkland Wednesday night and started a stampede in Kirkland's own corral. It looked like easy roping for the Genoa boys until the last quarter when Kirkland's war-horses broke loose and beat them to the high score which ended 19 to 23.

On Friday night the Leich Electric Co. will play the Shoe Factory and the Business Men will play the Legion at the local gym. Let's go and boost. Every one can play in the new gym. Why don't you?

NOTES FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Inmate of County Infirmary Committed to State Hospital

WOMAN MOONSHINER IS FINED

Jury Returns Verdict of $1 in a Damage Suit Caused by Collision of Autos

On information filed in the county court by State's Attorney Poust, Mary Komadina of DeKalb was brot before Judge Pond on Monday charged with violating the prohibition act. This action is the result of a raid by the state's attorney and the sheriff on the premises of the defendant a few days ago. A quantity of mash in the process of fermentation was taken which was destroyed after a sample was taken. Defendant entered a plea of guilty and was fined $100 and costs, amounting in all to $126.40, which she paid in cash and was discharged.

State's Attorney Poust also arraigned Linwell Roy Wilcoxen of Earlville in the county court on charges of transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor. Wilcoxen was arrested on Nov. 29 last at Sandwich while under the influence of liquor. He was unable to give bond and has been in jail since his arrest. On information filed by the state's attorney, Wilcoxen was brought before Judge Pond Monday and entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $100 and costs which were paid by his father who appeared in court with him. The total fine and costs amounted to $131.70 1/2 fine, together with the time he spent in jail should be a lesson to him.

On complaint made by James Darnell, superintendent of the DeKalb Infirmary, State's Attorney Poust, filed a petition in the county court to inquire into the sanity of Agnes Brock, for the past seven years an inmate of the Infirmary. She is 50 years old and formerly had taught school in DeKalb. She was found to be insane by a jury in the county court, before Judge Pond on Monday and committed to the Elgin hospital for insane in Elgin. She was violently insane when she appeared in court.

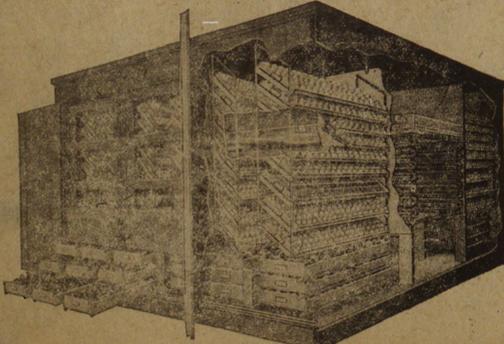

An unusual foreclosure proceeding was brought in the circuit court when the First Trust and Savings Bank of DeKalb filed its bill against Samuel E. Bradt, former guardian of Leonard Rowe, Mary Rowe and Grace B. Rowe, Septimus L. Rowe guardian of Grace B. Rowe, John Rowe, Leonard Rowe, Mary Rowe, Grace B. Rowe, Sophia J. Doane and First National Bank of DeKalb, defendants.

It is alleged in the bill that Samuel Bradt, DeKalb being guardian of Leonard, Mary and Grace B. Rowe, minors, filed his petition in the county court of DeKalb county and afterward a hearing was had resulting in an order being entered on August 20, 1917, empowering him as guardian of the minors, with one John Rowe the other tenant in common of certain real estate to borrow $12,500 and authorized the guardian further to mortgage the real estate of the minors for the security of the debt. The guardian thereafter on October 11, 1917, together with John Rowe, borrowed from the complainant the sum of $10,500 for a period of three years and they both executed their note for the money. They further executed a trust deed conveying the swi of sec. 14, twp. 40, north range three as security for the money which was borrowed from the bank. The defendants John Rowe, Leonard Rowe, Mary Rowe and Grace B. Rowe are owners in common of the real estate subject to the payment of one half of an annuity of $650 held by Sophia J. Doane, which is made a charge on the property.

On the majority of Leonard and Mary Rowe, Samuel Bradt as guardian made settlement with the county court and resigned as guardian of Grace B. Rowe and Septimus L. Rowe was appointed guardian, and is still acting.

Default has been made in the payment of the principal sum secured by the trust deed and the complainant, who is the holder of the mortgage, seeks to have it foreclosed and the property sold for payment of the debt.

Many ambitious men and women live only half a life—and don't know it

No person whose nerves are continually irritated, whose appetite and digestion are disturbed, or who doesn't sleep well has more than half his normal chance for success in life. For weakness, debility, anemia and general lack of tone are a serious handicap to anybody.

Those who drink tea or coffee are often sufferers from these conditions. Tea and coffee contain caffeine, a substance which has a decided stimulant action on the nerves and brain cells.

Each cup of strong coffee contains about as large a dose of caffeine as your doctor would ordinarily give to a very sick person.

You can readily see that the effect of giving this stimulant regularly to a well person might finally have a tendency to make him sick.

If you want to avoid a very common cause of irritation and enjoy restful sleep, good digestion, and all the feeling of vigor and robust endurance that comes to healthy, normal people, quit tea and coffee, and drink Postum, instead. It is a rich, coffee-like cereal beverage—perfectly delicious!

Order Postum from your grocer today. Drink this fragrant, aromatic beverage and see how much better you'll feel—able to do more without becoming fatigued—as thousands have discovered for themselves.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

PRESIDENT BACKS WATERWAY PLAN

Harding Tells Farm Meeting Great Lakes Project Is Feasible.

SAYS FARMER MUST BE AIDED

Points Need of Machinery to Furnish Working Capital to Farmer Easily and Quickly—U. S. Must Meet Present Crisis.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Feasibility of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes water ways project "is unquestioned," President Harding declared before the national agricultural conference.

"I have spoken," the President said, "of the advantage which Europe enjoys because of its easy access to the sea, the cheapest and surest transportation facility. In our own country is presented one of the world's most attractive opportunities for extension of the seaways many hundreds of miles inland.

"The heart of the continent, with its vast resources in both agriculture and industry, would be brought in communication with all the ocean routes by the execution of the St. Lawrence waterways project. To enable ocean-going vessels to have access to all the ports of the Great Lakes would have a most stimulating effect upon the industrial life of the continent's interior.

"The feasibility of the project is unquestioned, and its costs, compared with some other great engineering works, would be small. Disorganized and prostrate, the nations of central Europe are even now setting their hands to the development of a great continental waterway, which, connecting the Rhine and Danube, will bring water transportation from the Black to the North sea, from Mediterranean to the Baltic.

"If nationalistic prejudice and economic difficulties can be overcome by Europe they certainly should not be formidable obstacles to an achievement less expensive and giving promise of yet greater advantages to the peoples of North America. Not only would the cost of transportation be greatly reduced, but a vast population would be brought overnight in immediate touch with the markets of the entire world."

Delegates from all sections of the country representing agriculture and industries dependent on it assembled here for the opening of the national conference called to consider the present situation confronting the farmer, and to lay down a permanent agricultural policy.

Development of a thorough code of law and business procedure, with the proper machinery of finance to assure the farmer as generous a supply of working capital on as reasonable terms as is granted to other industries, was advocated by President Harding in his address.

"An industry," the President said, "more vital than any other, in which nearly half the nation's wealth is invested, can be relied upon for good security and certain returns."

Declaring that in the matter of what may be called fixed investment capital the disadvantage of the farmer so impressed public opinion that the federal farm loan board was established to meet the need.

"Compared with other industries," he continued, "the wonder is that agriculture, thus deprived of easy access to both investment and accommodation capital, has prospered even so well."

Lines on which financial support of agriculture may be organized, Mr. Harding said, are suggested in the plan of the federal farm loan board and in the rural finance societies which have been so effective in some European countries.

"The co-operative loaning associations of Europe have been effective incentives to united action by farmers," he continued, "and have led them directly into co-operation in both production and marketing which have contributed greatly to the stabilization and prosperity of agriculture."

Whether these organizations are considered as means to buying the farmers' requirements in a cheaper market, the President asserted, or to selling his products in a more remunerative one, "the conclusion in all cases is the same; it is that the farmer is as good a business man as any other if he has the chance."

The manufacturer, Mr. Harding said, whose turnover is rapid, finds he can borrow money from the bank on short-time notes when he needs working capital, and his money will come back to him in time to meet his short-time obligations. On the other hand, he continued, the farmer's turnover is a long one; from a year in most cases to sometimes three years in the cattle industry.

"Ma" Burdick, Famous for Doughnuts and Pies, Still Trying to Serve World War Boys.

"As we tried to serve the boys while under shell fire, so we are trying to meet their needs of today," says Mrs. Ensign F. O. Burdick of the Salvation Army, recently elected national chaplain of the American Legion auxiliary.

That Mrs. Burdick did serve "the boys under shell fire," thousands of the A. E. F. will testify. "Ma" Burdick to the men, her doughnuts and pies were known to the last of Pershing's army.

Mrs. Burdick, who is sixty years old but doesn't show it, arrived in France in December, 1917, with "Pa" her husband. With a stove which Mr. Burdick also an ensign of the Salvation Army, plugged up, and a sewing machine which she found and repaired. "Ma" cooked for the boys as they came from the lines, mended their clothes and made new ones out of salvaged material.

"Ma" and "Pa" were godparents of the First division, and from December of 1917 until the armistice Mrs. Burdick baked her pies and made her doughnuts in every sector of the western front, as close up to the fighting lines as they would allow her. The war over, the couple were transferred to Brest, where they ministered to the soldiers until they sailed for home in April, 1919.

Mrs. Burdick, a resident of Wichita Falls, Tex., is in charge of hospital relief work for disabled ex-service men for the Legion auxiliary of Texas in addition to her duties as national chaplain and ensign of the army hosts.

Miss Thais Magrane Is Elected President of the New York State Organization.

A tribute to the stage and to those actors and actresses who gave freely of their time and talents to keep men happy during the war was paid by the American Legion of New York in the election of Miss Thais Magrane as president of its state women's auxiliary.

With her brother in active service in the navy, Miss Magrane spent little of her time behind Manhattan's footlights and most of it with sick and wounded soldiers returned from France and quartered in Polyclinic hospital. She later assisted in the organization of the auxiliary of S. Rankin Drew post of the Legion, composed of Broadway's actors, writers and producers who were in service.

Miss Magrane is a native of St. Louis, Mo. She was "discovered" while playing in a stock company in Los Angeles. She played the title role in "Everywoman," and her engagements have included the leading stock organizations which have toured the country.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Newly ex-service men of New York city are being provided for by a municipal fund under direction of the Legion.

Boy relatives of members of the Eleventh Minnesota post of the Legion have been organized into a boy scout troop.

The Home Guard company of Fairmont, Minn., has turned over its war fund of $400 to furnish the building of the Legion post.

War vessels tied up at Seattle, Wash., may be used to billet unemployed former service men, if the plan of the Itanier-Noble post succeeds.

The old City club of Champaign, Ill., has been absorbed by the American Legion post there. The post will erect a community home, open to the public.

A fourth of the freshmen law students at Vanderbilt university are ex-service men receiving vocational training and belong to a Nashville post of the Legion.

"The world's only shunning chicken" was billed in the "Joy Day" celebration of Hendrick (Pa.) post of the Legion. The post claims the chicken was "born that way."

Half of the money for the erection of the community memorial building to be erected by the American Legion post at Sturgis, S. D., has been pledged by its members from state bonuses.

Midst regimental honors galore and major general ruffles, Harford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, was received by his old regiment, the Ninth infantry, stationed at Houston, Tex. A loving cup was given him by the men.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF GENOA, DE KALB COUNTY, ILLINOIS:

Notice is hereby given that the council of said city has called, and there will be held in said city on Saturday, the 4th day of February, 1922, a special election for the purpose of submitting to the voters of said city the following ordinance:

ORDINANCE NO. 131

AN ORDINANCE providing for borrowing money and issuing bonds of the city of Genoa, DeKalb County, Illinois, to the amount of $12,000, for the purpose of improving the municipal waterworks pumping plant, and providing for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds.

WHEREAS, it is deemed advisable and necessary that the municipal waterworks pumping plant of the city of Genoa, in the county of DeKalb, state of Illinois, be improved by the sinking of a new well and by installing a new pump and equipment; Now Therefore

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GENOA:

Section 1. That there be borrowed by and for and on behalf of the city of Genoa in the state of Illinois, the sum of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) for the purpose of improving the municipal waterworks pumping plant of said city. That to evidence said loan negotiable coupon bonds of said city be issued. Said bonds shall be designated "Waterworks Improvement Bonds," be twelve (12) in number, numbered from 1 to 12 inclusive, and of the denomination of one thousand dollars ($1,000) each, and shall bear date of March 1, 1922, and shall become due and payable in numerical order; $1,000 on March 1, of each of the years 1925 to 1936 inclusive.

Said bonds shall bear interest from date at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, payable on the first day of September 1922, and semi-annually thereafter on the first days of March and September in each year after the date thereof until paid, which interest payments to the date of the maturity of the principal shall be evidenced by proper interest coupons attached to each bond and maturing on the dates herein provided, and both principal and interest shall be payable at the Harris Trust & Savings Bank, in the city of Chicago, state of Illinois. The seal of said city shall be affixed to each of said bonds, and said bonds shall be signed by the mayor and attested by the city clerk of said city, and said coupons shall be signed and attested by said officials, respectively, by their fac simile signatures and said officers, shall, by the execution of said bonds, adopt as and for their respective proper signatures, their respective fac simile signatures appearing on said coupons.

Section 2. That each of said bonds and each of the interest coupons to be thereto attached shall be in substantially the following forms:

(FORM OF BOND)

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA State of Illinois County of DeKalb CITY OF GENOA

Waterworks Improvement Bond No. $1,000.00

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That the city of Genoa, in the county of DeKalb, and state of Illinois, hereby acknowledges itself to owe and for value received hereby promises to pay to bearer, the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) lawful money of the United States of America, on the first day of March, 19—, together with interest on said sum from the date hereof until paid at the rate of six (6%) per cent per annum, payable on the first day of September 1922 and semi-annually thereafter on March 1, and September 1 in each year upon presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached as they severally become due and payable. Both principal and interest are payable at the Harris Trust & Savings Bank in the city of Chicago, state of Illinois. And for the prompt payment of this bond, both principal and interest as aforesaid, at maturity, the full faith, credit and resources of said city are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is issued by said city for the purpose of improving the municipal waterworks pumping plant in said city, pursuant to and in all respects in compliance with an act entitled, "An Act to provide for the incorporation of cities and villages," approved April 10, 1872, and all amendments thereto, and an ordinance duly passed by the council of said city and submitted to and approved by the voters of said city at an election duly called and held for that purpose.

And it is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by the constitution and laws of the state of Illinois to exist or to be done precedent to and in the issuance of this bond have existed, and have been properly done, happened and been performed in regular and due form and time as required by law; and that the indebtedness of said city, including this bond, does not exceed any constitutional or statutory limit; and that provision has been made for the collection of a direct annual tax, in addition to all other taxes, on all the taxable property in said city to pay the interest hereon as the same falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal hereof at maturity.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the said city of Genoa, by its council, has caused its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed, and this bond to be signed by its mayor and attested by its city clerk, and the coupons hereto attached to be signed and attested by said officers respectively, by their respective fac simile signatures, and said officers do, by the execution hereof, adopt as and for their respective proper signatures, their respective fac simile signatures appearing on said coupons, all as of the first day of March, 1922.

Attest: Mayor

City Clerk.

(FORM OF COUPON)

No. $ On the first day of 19—, the city of Genoa, in the county of DeKalb and state of Illinois, will pay to bearer—dollars, at Illinois, for interest due that day on its Waterworks Improvement Bond No. dated March 1, 1922.

Attest: Mayor

City Clerk

Section 3. That for the purpose of providing the funds required to pay the interest on said bonds promptly when and as the same falls due and to pay and discharge the principal thereof at their maturity, there be and there is hereby levied upon all of the taxable property within said city in each year while any of said bonds are outstanding, a direct annual tax sufficient for that purpose and that there be and there is hereby levied on all of the taxable property in said city, in addition to all other taxes, the following direct annual tax, to-wit:

For the year 1922, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,080, being $360, to reimburse the general fund for advancement to pay interest maturing during the year 1922, and $720 for interest.

For the year 1923, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $720, for interest;

For the year 1924, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,590 for interest and principal;

For the year 1925, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,630 for interest and principal;

For the year 1926, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,570 for interest and principal;

For the year 1927, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,510 for interest and principal;

For the year 1928, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,450 for interest and principal;

For the year 1929, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,390 for interest and principal;

For the year 1930, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,330 for interest and principal;

For the year 1931, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,270 for interest and principal;

For the year 1932, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,210 for interest and principal;

For the year 1933, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,150 for interest and principal;

For the year 1934, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,090 for interest and principal;

For the year 1935, a tax sufficient to produce the sum of $1,030 for interest and principal;

That the interest falling due during the year 1922, or any other time when there are insufficient funds on hand to pay the same, be paid promptly by when due from current funds on hand in advancement of the collection of taxes, and when said taxes shall have been collected, reimbursement shall be made to the said funds in the amount thus advanced.

That forthwith upon the approval of this ordinance by the voters of said city, a copy hereof, certified by the clerk of said city, which certificate shall recite that this ordinance has been passed by the council of said city, published and approved by a majority of the voters of said city, voting at a special election called for that purpose shall be filed with the county clerk of DeKalb County, who shall in and for each of the years 1922 to 1935, both years included, ascertain the rate per cent required to produce the aggregate tax hereinbefore provided to be levied for each of said years respectively, and extend the same for collection on the tax books in connection with other taxes levied in each of said years respectively and by said city for general corporate purposes of said city, and in each of said years such annual tax shall be levied and collected by said city in like manner as taxes for general purposes for each of said years are levied and collected, and when collected, such taxes shall be used for the purpose of paying principal and interest upon the bonds hereinbefore described when same mature.

Section 4. That all ordinances, resolutions and orders, or parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Passed and approved this sixth (6th) day of January, A. D. 1922, by the city council of the city of Genoa, DeKalb County, Illinois.

How It Started

THE JURY.

SHORTLY after the Norman Conquest the Curia Regis, or King's court, appointed twelve knights to inquire into and examine various matters which might come before it. Sutors at the Curia Regis began to summon these twelve to inquire into and judge their suits. Thus, originally, the jury (Latin, jurare, to swear) were twelve men sworn to investigate and judge evidence. During the reign of Henry IV the jury was restricted to its present function as judge of facts only.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ALONG THE SHORE.

THE word "impossible" has no place in the brave man's vocabulary. This statement applies with equal force and certainty to brave women; to brave boys and girls who, in their faith and persistence adhere firmly to right purposes and keep ever pressing forward, refusing always to admit defeat.

If it were not for these courageous people, the world would soon drift into a state of deplorable ignorance, helplessness and poverty.

How strong and capable is the adroitly sailed ship on the sea of life, with her white canvas bulging as she booms on to the distant haven where hordes of expectant humans await her arrival!

If in adverse winds and pounding storms the navigator should throw up his hands and cry "impossible," the ship and her precious cargo would be lost.

There is entrusted to you by the Creator full command of the wonderful ship that carries your soul, which at the end of life's voyage you are expected to bring safely into the harbor.

You must not shirk this great responsibility.

You must not cry "impossible," lose heart or enthusiasm.

You must perform your whole duty with unfailing precision, whether sailing under clear skies or beneath domes blurred with leaden clouds driven by howling gales.

The storms are meant to test your skill and patience; to bring out your fine qualities; to enable you to say with the strong and the true that nothing is "impossible" for him or her who holds fast to faith.

In a world where most of us sail in circles, unmindful of our duties, we need every day to be reminded of what lies beyond—the treacherous rocks that we must shun; the tempests of our own making that must be avoided and the whirlpools of the evil one.

Many souls have gone down on the jagged reefs of bad habits; many others have been ruthlessly swept overboard by sudden whirlwinds of temper or lashed to pieces by storming tongues.

All along the shore of adventure from adolescence to old age, the lone beaches are strewn with wrecks of humans who never learned to sail the Soul's Ship, who never sought the peaceful harbor because they stubbornly refused to recognize "the possibility of writing on the eternal skies the record of a heroic life."

WHAT TO EAT.

THE following are some of the many good old-fashioned dishes that most of us enjoy:

Oyster Stew. Put a pint of oysters in a colander and pour over them cold water to rinse, then pick out the oysters with the fingers to see that there are no bits of shell. Heat three cups of milk over hot water; strain into it the oyster liquor and add three tablespoons of butter. Cook the oysters until they are plump and the edges curl; add the hot milk, boil up and serve at once.

English Pastry. Cut into small pieces a pound of round steak; cut in slices a pint of potatoes; slice three onions. Make a rich biscuit dough; roll out and line a deep pie plate; put in a layer of the sliced uncooked meat, a sprinkling of salt and pepper, a layer of potatoes and onions. Cover with a crust as for pie, leaving a small opening for the steam to escape. Bake slowly until the crust is well done. Wrap in a cloth and steam for ten minutes before serving. This meat pie is good hot or cold.

Meat Balls. Season two cups of chopped meat with salt, pepper, a pinch of clove and a little minced onion, a cupful of oatmeal or other cooked cereal; add one egg and shape into cakes. Brown in butter or lard and butter mixed. Serve garnished with sprigs of parsley.

Rich Custard Pie. Prepare a crust and line a deep pie plate. For the filling take one-quarter cupful of sugar, two eggs well beaten, a pint of milk and nutmeg to season. Just before going into the oven sprinkle with a half-cupful or more of sliced black walnut meats. Bake as usual. The nuts will form a nice brown crust on top of the pie.

THANKSGIVING GOOD THINGS.

IT IS a good plan to have as much as possible of the preparation for our feast day done the day before. Some things are better done ahead of time, for example, cranberry jelly and stuffing the turkey. A turkey which is stuffed the day before it is roasted, is of much better flavor, as the seasoning has a chance to work into the fowl. Mince and pumpkin pies may be made early so that on Thanksgiving day only the less important things are left to be done.

Celery may be washed, wrapped in a cloth and laid in a cool place. Nuts may be cracked, and many little things which take time, can be attended to the day before.

A salad which will be enjoyed by everyone may be all ready to serve. The lettuce washed, drained and placed in a cool, airtight place to keep crisp.

For the dressing, take two table-spoonfuls of chopped green pepper, one table-spoonful of minced parsley, one table-spoonful of powdered sugar, a table-spoonful of salt, one-quarter of a cupful of vinegar and three-quarters of a cupful of good olive oil, or any sweet vegetable oil may be used, but it will not have the delicious flavor of the olive. Shake all together in a pint mason jar a half-hour, at intervals, then place in a cool place. This dressing will keep for two weeks, and is called Sherry's dressing. This is especially good with tender head lettuce or Chinese cabbage.

When making the pumpkin pie, just add a few drops of lemon extract with the ginger used in seasoning, and notice the improvement in flavor.

Cranberry frappé is a delicious way of serving that berry. Strain the cooked berries, using two cupfuls, a cupful of sugar and a pint of water, two table-spoonfuls of lemon juice to set the color, and freeze as usual. The frappe will be a luscious watermelon pink. Serve in tall glasses with the turkey.

If one has gathered the firm green tomatoes before the frost has nipped them and wrapped each in a square of paper, placing them in a very cool cellar, they will be ripe and firm to use for a salad for a Thanksgiving day supper.

Cider Salad. To one quart of sweet cider, add the juice of two lemons, one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water, four table-spoonfuls of granulated gelatin one-fourth cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of seeded and skinned white grapes. Soften the gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water; add the hot water, then the other ingredients. Let cool before adding the grapes. Turn into small molds and chill.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

So many problems in the world I never knew about before. Since I've read Socialistic books I see I ought to worry more.

Causes of Winds. Winds are produced by a disturbance of the equilibrium in some part of the atmosphere; a disturbance always resulting from a difference in temperature between adjacent sections. Thus, if the temperature of a certain extent of ground becomes higher, the air in contact with it becomes heated, the air expands and goes toward the colder or higher regions of the atmosphere; whence it flows, producing winds which blow from hot to cold countries. But at the same time the equilibrium is destroyed at the surface of the earth, for the pressure on the colder adjacent parts is greater than that on that which has been heated, and hence a current will be produced with a velocity dependent on the difference between these pressures; thus two distinct winds will be produced—an upper one setting outward from the heated region, and a lower one setting inward toward it.

The Victor's Privilege. The man and the boy met at the entrance to the little park, and walked down the path together. The man noted the disheveled appearance of the lad and questioned him.

"What's the trouble, sonny? You look like you'd been in a wreck?"

"None. Been in a fight," the boy informed him carelessly.

"Been in a fight, eh?" the man repeated. "And who whipped?"

"I did, of course," the boy answered, contentedly. "If I hadn't whipped do you think I'd be tellin' you about it?"

A verdict finding the defendant, Chas. Kallman, guilty and assessing Geo. Krugers, plaintiffs damages at $1 was returned by a jury in the county court, before Judge Pond on Wednesday afternoon. Geo. Kruger brought suit before Justice of the Peace Sell, claiming that he had sustained damages of $200 to his Paige automobile in a collision which occurred in February 1921, with the defendant's auto. He recovered judgment against the defendant and from this an appeal was taken to the county court. The parties are both from Kane county and from the evidence of the plaintiff it appeared that while driving his auto on the county line road he was struck by a Cadillac auto driven by the defendant. It was his contention that he had the right of way and the the defendant who was driving in the opposite direction was negligent in not observing the law of the road. The defendant introduced evidence to show that the plaintiff was driving his car at a reckless speed and fled a counterclaim against the plaintiff for the damages his car sustained. The amount of damages involved was the sum of $200. The trial of the case was begun on Tuesday and was given to the jury on Wednesday noon. The jury deliberated for about three hours and then rendered the above verdict. In all probability the jury figured the parties were both at fault and hence the unusual verdict of $1.00.

Bessie Nelson of Sycamore filed suit for divorce in the circuit court against Mongie Carl Nelson, her husband. It is alleged that she married the defendant in St. Louis, Mo. on November 20 1917 and that they lived together until October 15, 1919, when the defendant disregarding his marriage obligations, deserted her and has not lived with her since. On grounds of desertion she seeks to have the matrimonial bonds dissolved.

Attachment proceedings were instituted in the circuit court by The Armstrong Rubber Company, a corporation against Emil Nitcher doing business as Nitcher Implement Co., for rubber tires sold by the plaintiff to the defendant during the months of April, May, June and July 1921, amounting to $1319.84.

LYNDON BANK AGAIN

The Lyndon State Bank, which former cashier Arthur Buzzell was said to have wrecked by his speculations previous to his disappearance two weeks ago, reopened Thursday, but was quickly closed by Frank E. Fitch, one of the heaviest depositors when he took his book to the bank to have it checked up. The book showed deposits of approximately $15000 to Fitch's credit, but the record of the bank showed his account overdrawn, and it was charged Buzzell used his money also. Immediately the directors ordered the bank closed, and asked further investigation by State Auditor Russell, who early in the week announced Buzzell's shortage to be $25000.

Examiners arrived in Lyndon Friday and called in all pass books for a further check of an apparent new avenue of Buzzell's speculations. When the bank opened Thursday, B. F. Ryan of East Moline, who had been engaged as cashier, failed to show up, adding further trouble for directors of the bank. He later sent word that he had reconsidered and did not desire to take the position. Buzzell has not been apprehended.

Over 105,000 More Cars and Trucks Disposed of than During Year 1920

Retail sales of Ford cars, trucks and Fordson tractors have again exceeded the million mark for the year 1921, according to a statement given out today by the Ford Motor company. The Ford factory and assembly plant production figures reached a total of 1,059,740 cars, trucks and tractors for the year, with retail sales by dealers approximately 1,093,000 which in the United States alone surpassed the 1920 retail record by 104,213 Ford cars and trucks.

The Ford Company says the outlook for 1922 is decidedly optimistic. In fact, concrete evidences already exist in that car and truck retail sales for December 1921, exceeded December 1920 sales by almost 25 per cent, and Fordson tractor retail sales for the same period show an increase over the total tractor sales for the month of November.

These facts seem to indicate that not only are the farmers buying more freely, but that the general public is becoming more responsive and receptive.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

The first announced candidate for state treasurer is Oscar Nelson, of Geneva, Illinois, county treasurer of Kane county for many years a Republican.

Mr. Nelson is a banker, two times mayor of Geneva, a former state president of the John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois and in an officer in the state association of county treasurers.

In his formal announcement, Mr. Nelson says: "I come from a district whose counties always return large Republican majorities and I solicit the support of all citizens who desire the state treasurer's office run strict according to both the letter and the spirit of the new law regulating the office."

Mr. Nelson will begin at once an active campaign for the nomination, taking him into every district in the state.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

WANT WHAT YOU NEED

PHILOSOPHERS tell us we can have anything we want, provided we want it enough.

With certain qualifications this is true. It explains why many men get things out of life that their friends never expected to get. They wanted them, and they got them.

Getting things in that way for most people involves considerable sacrifice. For example, if a dry goods clerk wants an automobile he may get it, but he will have to skimp pretty heavily on his clothes and diet if he gets it while he still remains a dry goods clerk.

It is for this reason that, when you begin wanting something, it will pay you to want what you need.

That will involve thought, for none of us know what we need until we devote considerable time to reflection and study.

There are men who want new wives, when they have perfectly good wives at home. They don't need them, and therefore ought not to want them.

There are other men who want wealth, when they don't need wealth at all.

Still other men want steam yachts when rowboats would do them more good, and private swimming pools when they would get more fun and health out of public baths in the ocean.

They may get these things, but they will be no better off when they do get them.

The wanting habit can grow into a very bad habit indeed unless you are careful to want what you need.

It is well to remember in this connection that there are some very important needs that you ought to want first of all.

One of them is a good reputation. Another is good health. A third is a home.

Want these badly enough to get them, and confine your wants after that to things that are reasonably certain to bring happiness.

Then want as hard as you like, and your wanting will not hurt you.

But wanting to be a "movie" star when you were born to be a furniture salesman, or to be a Caruso when you were born to be an accountant, will only make you unhappy.

You won't get either of these things, even by wanting them, and you will spend a very unhappy life in the effort.

Want what you need and you will be reasonably sure to get it, if you begin young enough. But don't want what you don't need. It will only make you miserable for life, even though you attain the object of your desires.

WHY? — DOES THE WIND BLOW?

WHEN any part of the earth becomes heated by the sun's rays, the air becomes thinner and rises. As it goes up, a current of cooler air comes in to take its place, thus making the disturbance we call the "wind." Likewise, damp air—which is lighter than dry air of the same degree of heat—will also rise and, rising, cause a disturbance above and below.

It is for this reason that there is usually a breeze from the sea by day and from the land by night, the land being heated faster than the water and the fresh air from the sea coming in to take its place. At night the process is reversed. The land cools faster than the water and the "wind" goes out to sea. Because these processes are continually going on all over the globe, the wind frequently gathers like a snowball and attains the proportions of a gale or a hurricane.

Simple Origin of Names. A primitive man the "oo" seemed to "koo"—hence the animal's name. The Greeks imitated the crow's sound with the word "korax" and from this, by way of the "corow" springs our name for the bird. The cuckoo named himself.

MILK AND CREAM

Scientists Declare That Milk is Thoroughly Pasteurized at 140 Degrees F.

Although the pasteurization of milk is important and necessary, the volume of cream on milk begins measurably to decrease when the temperature of pasteurization rises from 142 degrees F. to 144 degrees F., according to a bulletin issued by the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Illinois.

As the temperature goes higher, the decrease in the volume of cream becomes rapidly more pronounced; at 145 degrees F it amounts to slightly more than 10 per cent by volume; at 146 degrees F it amounts to 16.6 per cent; and at 148 degrees F to approximately 40 per cent," says the bulletin.

"The layer of cream on the bottle of milk as delivered to the consumer is important because the consumer used it as an index of the richness of the milk and a source of cream.

"Since 1900 a heating of the milk to 140 degrees-145 degrees F for 30 minutes has been generally recognized as proper pasteurization. Recently there has been a growing demand that the temperature of pasteurization be increased to 145 degrees F for thirty minutes as a minimum time and temperature.

"In the operation of practically all variation of at least three degrees Fahrenheit is practically unavoidable. Many machines vary even more widely. Accordingly, the requirement of 145 degrees as the minimum temperature means pasteurization at 145 to 148 degrees F.

"Repeated careful studies by different scientists have uniformly shown that the most resistant disease germs which may enter milk are destroyed by a fifteen-minute heating at 140 degrees F. Under such circumstances pasteurization at 142-145 degrees F for thirty minutes provides a very considerable margin of safety, both in the matter of temperature and of time of exposure.

"The proposition to require pasteurization at a minimum of 145 degrees for thirty minutes involves so large a destruction of the cream layer, which is highly esteemed by the public, that such requirement would probably result in a decreasing consumption of pasteurized milk. Accordingly, this increase in the margin of safety would hardly seem justified in the absence of any evidence that 142 degrees-145 degrees F. is insufficient and in the absence of any attempt to provide increased safety in other ways.

Eight States Refuse to Pay High Price for Road Material

Highway departments of eight states in the Mississippi valley today declared war on cement manufacturers.

Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota and Wisconsin will not buy any more cement for road construction until the price of cement is lower.

Representatives of these states met here today and pledged themselves to a gentleman's agreement to this effect. This agreement has been sent to Indiana and Ohio departments, whose representatives were not present. It is said they, too, will also join in the boycott.

The action taken here today will tie up proposed highway construction of over $200,000,000 in the Mississippi. Contracts now ready to be let, totaling over $1000,000,000 are now being held up. State-owned cement mills to supply the needs of the state are being urged. Illinois has already taken steps for the construction of such a mill.

Illinois will go ahead immediately upon the construction of a state mill. C. R. Miller, director of public works today announced. No location has been secured but there is $5,000,000 available for such a mill. —DeKalb Chronicle.

Ocean Floor Comparatively Flat.

Nowhere on dry land are there such vast flat plains as occur at the bottom of the oceans. The success of the submarine telegraphic cables is due in part to the flatness of the ocean bottom. Steep slopes are rare, and it is in such places that breaks in the cable usually occur.

"There's one thing more that we mustn't neglect," warned Mr. Gibney before the meeting broke up. "We've got to run this little vessel into some dog-hole where there's a nice beach and smooth water, and change her name. I notice that her old name Reina Maria is screwed into her bows and across her stern in raised gilt letters, contrary to law and custom. We'll snip 'em off, sandpaper every spot where there's a letter, and repaint it; after which we'll rig up a stagin' over her bow and stern, and cut her new name, 'Maggie II,' right into her plankin'. Nobody'll ever suspect her name's been changed. I notice that the official letters and numbers cut into her main beam is F-C-P-9957. I'll change the F to E, and the C to O, and the P to R. A handy man with a wood chisel can do lots of things. He can change those nines to eights, the five to a six, and the seven to a nine. I've seen it done before. Then we'll rig a foretopmast and a spinnaker boom on her, and bend a fisherman's staysail. Nothing like it when you're sailing a little off the wind. Scraggs, you have the papers of the old Maggie, and we all have our licenses regular enough. Dig up the old papers, Scraggs, and I'll doctor 'em up to fit the Maggie II. As for our armament, we'll dismount the guns and stow 'em away in the hold until we get down on the Colombian coast, and while we're lying in Panama repairing the holes where my shots went through her, and puttin' new planks in her decks where the old plankin' has been scored by shrapnel, those parakeets will think we're as peaceful as chipmunks. Better look over your supplies, McGuffey, and see if there's any paint aboard. I'd just as lief give the old girl a different dress before we drop anchor in Panama."

"Gib," said Captain Scraggs, earnestly. "I'll keel-haul and shull-drag the man that says you ain't got a great head."

"By the lord," supplemented McGuffey, "you have."

The commodore smiled and tapped his forehead with his forefinger. "Imagination, my lads, imagination," he said, and reached for the last of the punch.

Exactly three weeks from the date of the naval battle which took place off the Coronado islands, and whereby Mr. Gibney became commodore and managing owner of the erstwhile Mexican coast patrol schooner Reina Maria, that vessel sailed out of the harbor of Panama completely rejuvenated. Not a scar on her shapely lines gave evidence of the sanguinary engagement through which she had passed.

Mr. Gibney had her painted a creamy white with a dark blue waterline. She had had her bottom cleaned and scraped and the copper sheathing overhauled and patched up. Her sails had been overhauled, inspected, and repaired wherever necessary, and in order to be on the safe side, Mr. Gibney, upon motion duly made by him and seconded by McGuffey (to whom the seconding of the Gibney motions had developed into a habit), purchased an extra suit of new sails. The engines were overhauled by the faithful McGuffey and a large store of distillate stored in the hold. Captain Scraggs, with his old-time aversion to expense, made a motion which was seconded by McGuffey before he had taken time to consider its import, providing for the abolition of the office of chief engineer while the Maggie II was under sail, at which time the chief ex-officio was to hold himself under the orders of the commodore and be transferred to the deck department if necessary. Mr. Gibney approved the measure and it went into effect. Only on entering or leaving a port, or in case of chase by an enemy, were the engines to be used, and McGuffey was warned to be extremely saving of his distillate.

Mr. Gibney made a splendid job of changing the vessel's name, and as she chugged lazily out of Panama bay and lifted to the long round-swell of the Pacific, it is doubtful if even her late Mexican commander would have recognized her. She was indeed a beautiful craft, and Commodore Gibney's heart swelled with pride as he stood aft, conning the man at the wheel, and looked her over. It seemed like a sacrilege now, when he reflected how he had trained the gup of the old Maggie on her that day off the Coronados, and it seemed to him now even a greater sacrilege to have brazenly planned to enter her as a privateer in the struggles of the republic of Colombia. The past tense is used advisedly, for that project was now entirely off, much to the secret delight of Captain Scraggs, who, if the hero of one naval engagement, was not anxious to take part in another. In Panama the freebooters of the Maggie II learned that during Mr. Gibney's absence on his filibustering trip the Colombian revolutionists had risen and struck their blow. After the fashion of a hot-headed and impetuous people, they had entered the contest absolutely untrained. As a result, the war had lasted just two weeks, the leaders had been ineffectually shot, and the white-winged dove of peace had once more spread her pinions along the borders of the Gold coast.

Commodore Gibney was disgusted beyond measure, and at a special meeting of the syndicate, called in the cabin of the Maggie II that same evening, it was finally decided that they should embark on an indefinite trading cruise in the South seas, or until such time as it seemed their services must be required to free a downtrodden people from a tyrant's yoke.

Captain Scraggs and McGuffey had never been in the South seas, but they had heard that a fair margin of profit was to be wrung from trade in copra, shell, coconuts, and kindred tropical products. They so expressed themselves. To this suggestion, however, Commodore Gibney waved a deprecating paw.

"Legitimate tradin', boys," he said, "is a nice, sane, healthy business, but the profits is slow. What we want is quick profits, and while it ain't set down in black and white, one of the principal objects of this syndicate is to lead a life of wild adventure. In tradin', there ain't no adventure to speak of. We ought to do a little black-birdin', or raid some of those Jap pearl fisheries off the northern coast of Formosa."

"But we'll be chased by real gunboats if we do that," objected Captain Scraggs. "Those Jap gunboats shoot to kill. Can't you think of somethin' else, Gib?"

"Well," said Mr. Gibney, "for a starter, I can. Suppose we just head straight for Kandavu Island in the Fijijs, and scheme around for a cargo of black coral? It's only worth about fifty dollars a pound. Kandavu lays somewhere in latitude 22 south, longitude 178 west, and when I was there last it was fair reekin' with cannibal savages. But there's tons of black coral there, and nobody's ever been able to sneak in and get away with it. Every time a boat used to land at Kandavu, the native niggers would have a white-man stew down on the beach, and it's got so that skippers give the island a wide berth."

"Gib, my dear boy," chattered Captain Scraggs, "I'm a man of peace and I—"

"Scraggs, old stick-in-the-mud," said Mr. Gibney, laying an affectionate hand on the skipper's shoulder, "you're nothin' of the sort. You're a fightin' tarantula, and nobody knows it better'n Adelbert P. Gibney. I've seen you in action, Scraggs. Remember that. It's all right for you to say you're a man of peace and advise me and McGuffey to keep out of the track of trouble, but we know that away down low you're goin' around lookin' for blood, and that once you're up agin the enemy, you never bat an eyelash. Eh, McGuffey?"

McGuffey nodded; whereupon, Captain Scraggs, making but a poor effort to conceal the pleasure which Mr. Gibney's rude compliment afforded him, turned to the rail, glanced seaward, and started to walk away to attend to some trifling detail connected with the boat falls.

"All right, Gib, my lad," he said, affecting to resign himself to the inevitable, "have it your own way. You're a commodore and I'm only a plain captain, but I'll follow wherever you lead. I'll go as far as the next man and we'll glom that black coral if we have to slaughter every man, woman and child on the island. Only, when we're sizzlin' in a pot don't you up and say I never warned you, because I did. How d'ye propose intimidatin' the natives, Gib?"

"Scraggs," said the commodore, solemnly, "we've waged a private war agin a friendly nation, licked 'em and helped ourselves to their ship. We've changed her name and rig and her official number and letters and we're sailin' under bogus papers. That makes us pirates, and that old Maggie burgee floatin' at the fore ain't nothin' more nor less than the Jolly Roger. All right! Let's be pirates. Who cares? When we slip into M'galao harbor we'll invite the king and his head men aboard for dinner. We'll get 'em drunk, clap 'em in double irons, and surrender 'em to their weepin' subjects when they've filled the hold of the Maggie II with black coral. If they refuse to come aboard we'll shell the bush with that long gun and the Maxim rapid-fire guns we've got below decks. That'll scare 'em so they'll leave us alone and we can help ourselves to the coral."

Scraggs' cold blue eyes glistened. "Lord, Gib," he murmured, "you've got a head."

"Like playin' post-office," was McGuffey's comment.

The commodore smiled. "I thought you boys would see it that way. Now tomorrow I'm going ashore to buy three divin' outfits and lay in a big stock of provisions for the voyage. In the meantime, while the carpenters are gettin' the ship into shape, we'll leave the first mate in charge while we go ashore and have a good time. I've seen worse places than Panama."

As a result of this conference Mr. Gibney's suggestions were acted upon, and they contrived to make their brief stay in Panama very agreeable. They inspected the work on the canal, marveled at the stupendous engineering in the Culebra Cut, drank a little, gambled a little, McGuffey whipped a bartender. He was ordered arrested, and six spiggoty little policemen, sent to arrest him, were also thrashed. The reserves were called out and a riot ensued. Mr. Gibney, following the motto of the syndicate, i. e.,

All for one and one for all—

mixed in the conflict and presently found himself in durance vile. Captain Scraggs, luckily, forgot the motto and escaped, but inasmuch as he was on hand next morning to pay a fine of thirty pesos levied against each of the culprits, he was instantly forgiven. Mr. Gibney vowed that if a United States cruiser didn't happen to be lying in the roadstead, he would have shelled the town in retaliation.

But eventually the days passed, and the Maggie II, well found and ready for sea, shook out her sails to a fair breeze and sailed away for Kandavu. She kept well to the southwest until she struck the southeast trades, when she swung around on her course, headed straight for her destination. It was a pleasant voyage, devoid of incident, and the health of all hands was excellent. Mr. Gibney took daily observations, and was particular to make daily entries in his log when he, Scraggs, and McGuffey were not playing cribbage, a game of which all three were passionately fond.

On the afternoon of the twenty-ninth day after leaving Panama the lookout reported land. Through his glasses Mr. Gibney made out a cluster of tall palms at the southerly end of the island, and as the schooner held lazily on her course he could discern the white breakers foaming over the reefs that guarded the entrance to the harbor.

"That's Kandavu, all right," announced the commodore. "I was there in '89 with Bill McGinty in the schooner Dashin' Wave. There's the entrance to the harbor, with the Esk reefs to the north and the Pearl reefs to the south. The channel's very narrow—not more than three cables, if it's that, but there's plenty of water and a good muddy bottom that'll hold. McGuffey, lad, better run below and tune up your engines. It's too dangerous a passage on an ebb-tide for a sailin' vessel, so we'll run in under the powder. Scraggs, stand by and when I give the word have your crew shorten sail."

Within a few minutes a long white streak opened up in the wake of the schooner, announcing that McGuffey's engines were doing duty, and a nice breeze springing up two points aft the beam, the Maggie heeled over and fairly flew through the water. Mr. Gibney smiled an ecstatic smile as he took the wheel and guided the schooner through the channel. He rounded her up in twelve fathoms, and within five minutes every stitch of canvas was clewed down hard and fast. The sun was setting as they dropped anchor, and Mr. Gibney had lanterns hung along the sail so that it would be impossible for any craft to approach the schooner and board her without being seen. Also the watch on deck that night carried Mauser rifles, six-shooters, and cutlasses. Mr. Gibney was taking no chances.

CHAPTER XI.

"Now, boys," announced Commodore Gibney, as he sat at the head of the officers' mess at breakfast next morning, "there'll be a lot of canoes paddling off to visit us within the hour, so whatever you do, don't allow more than two of these cannibals aboard the schooner at the same time. Make 'em keep their weapons in the canoes with 'em, and at the first sign of trouble shoot 'em down like dogs. It may be that these precautions ain't necessary, but when I was here twenty years ago it was all the rage to kill a white man and eat him. Maybe times has changed, but the harbor and the coast looks just as wild and lonely as they ever did, and I didn't see no sign of missionary when we dropped hook last night. So don't take no chances."

All hands promised that they would take extreme care, to the end that their precious persons might remain intact, so Mr. Gibney finished his cup of coffee at a gulp and went on deck.

The Kandavu aborigines were not long in putting in an appearance. Even as Mr. Gibney came on deck half a dozen canoes shot out from the beach. Mr. Gibney immediately piped all hands on deck, armed them, and nonchalantly awaited the approach of what might or might not turn out to be an enemy.

When the flotilla was within pistol shot of the schooner Mr. Gibney stepped to the rail and motioned them back. Immediately the natives ceased paddling, and a wild-looking fellow stood up in the forward canoe. After the manner of his kind he had all his life soused his head in lime-water when making his savage toilette, and as a result his shock of black hair stood on end and bulged out like a crowded hayrick. He was naked, of course, and in his hand he held a huge war club.

"That feller'd eat a rattlesnake," gasped Captain Scraggs. "Shoot him, Gib, if he bats an eye."

"Shut up," said the commodore, a trifle testily; "that's the number-one nigger, who does the talkin'. Hello, boy."

"Hello, cap'n," replied the savage, and saluted gravely. "You likee buy chicken, buy pig? Maybe you say come 'board, I talk. Me very good friend white master."

"Bless my sweet-scented soul!" gasped the commodore. "What won't them missionaries do next? Cut off my ears if this nigger ain't civilized!" He beckoned to the canoe and it shot alongside, and its brown crew came climbing over the rail of the Maggie II.

Mr. Gibney met the spokesman at the rail and they rubbed noses very solemnly, after the manner of salutation in Kandavu. Captain Scraggs bustled forward, full of importance.

"Interduce me, Gib," he said amiably, and then, while Mr. Gibney favored him with a sour glance, Captain Scraggs stuck out his hand and shook briskly with the native.

"Happy to make your acquaintance," he said. "Scraggs is my name, sir. Shake hands with McGuffey, our chief engineer. Hope you left all the folks at home well. What'd you say your name was?"

The islander hadn't said his name was anything, but he grinned now and replied that it was Tabu-Tabu.

"Well, my bucko," muttered McGuffey, who always drew the color line, "I'm glad to hear that. But you ain't the only thing that's taboo around this pocket. You can jest check that war club with the first mate, pendin' our better acquaintance. Hand it over, you black beggar, or I'll hit you a swat in the ear that'll hurt all your relations. And hereafter, Scraggs, just keep your nigger friends to yourself. I ain't waxin' effusive over this savage, and it's agin my principles ever to shake hands with a colored man. This chap's a d—d ugly customer, and you take my word for it."

"Tabu-Tabu grinned again, walked to the rail, and tossed his war club down into the canoe.

"Me good missionary boy," he said, rather humbly.

"McGuffey, my dear boy," protested Captain Scraggs, "don't be so doggone rude. You might hurt this poor lad's feelin's. Of course he's only a simple native nigger, but even a dawg has feelin's. You—"

"A-r-r-rh!" snarled McGuffey. "You two belay talkin' and snappin' at each other," commanded Mr. Gibney, "an' leave all bargainin' to me. This boy is all right and we'll get along first rate if you two just haul ship and do somethin' useful besides buttin' in on our superior officer. Come along, Tabu-Tabu. Makee little eat down in cabin. You talker captain."

"Gib, my dear boy," sputtered Captain Scraggs, bursting with curiosity, following the commodore's reappearance on deck, "whatever's in the wind?"

"Money—fortune," said Mr. Gibney, solemnly.

McGuffey edged up and eyed the commodore seriously. "Sure there ain't a little fightin' mixed up in it?" he asked.

"Not a bit of it," replied Mr. Gibney. "You're as safe on Kandavu as if you were in church. This Tabu kid is sort of prime minister to the king, with a heap of influence at court. The crew of a British cruiser stole him for a galley police when he was a kid, and he got civilized and learned to talk English. He was a cannibal in them days, but the chaplain aboard showed him how foolish it was to do such things, and finally Tabu-Tabu got religion and asked us a special favor to be allowed to return to Kandavu to civilize his people. As a result of Tabu-Tabu's efforts, he tells me the king has concluded that when he eats a white man he's flyin' in the face of his own interests, and most generally a gunboat com's along in a few months and shells the bush, and—well, anyhow, there ain't been a barbecue on Kandavu for ten years. It's a capital crime to eat a man now, and punishable by boillin' the offender alive in palm oil."

"Well," rumbled McGuffey, "this Tabu-Tabu don't look much like a preacher, if you ask me. But how about this black coral?"

"Oh, I've ribbed up a deal with him," said Mr. Gibney. "He'll see that we get all the trade we can lug away. We're the first vessel that's touched here in two years, and they have a thunderin' lot of stuff on hand. Tabu's gone ashore to talk the king into doin' business with us. If he consents, we'll have him and Tabu-Tabu and three or four of the subchiefs aboard for dinner, or else he'll invite us ashore for a big feed, and we'll have to go."

"Supposin' the king don't care to have any truck with us?" inquired McGuffey, anxiously.

"In that case, Mac," replied the commodore with a smile, "we'll just naturally shell him out of house and home."

"Well, then," said McGuffey, "let's get the guns ready. Somethin' tells me these people ain't to be trusted, and I'm tellin' you right now, Gib, I won't sleep well tonight unless them two quarter gatlings and the Maxim-Vickers rapid-fire guns is mounted and ready for business."

"All right, Mac," replied Mr. Gibney, in the tone one uses when humoring a baby. "Set 'em up if it'll make you feel more cheerful. Still, I don't see why you want to go actin' so foolish over nothin'."

"Well, Gib," replied the engineer, "I may be crazy, but I ain't no fool, and if there's a dead whale around the ship, I can come pretty near smellin'

it. I tell you, Gib, that Tabu-Tabu nigger had a look in his eye for all the world like a cur dog lickin' a bone. I ain't takin' no chances. My old man used to say: 'Bart, whatever you do, alers have an anchor out to windward.'"

"By the left hind leg of the Great Sacred Bull," snapped Captain Scraggs, "if you ain't enough to precipitate war."

"War," replied McGuffey, "is my long suit—particularly war with native niggers. I just naturally crave to punch the ear of anything darker than a Portuguese. Remember how I cleaned out the police department of Panama?"

"Mount the guns if you're goin' to, Mac. If not, for the love of the Lord don't be demoralizin' the crew with this talk of war. All I ask is that you set the guns after I've finished my business here with Tabu-Tabu. He's been on a war vessel, and knows what guns are, and if he saw you mountin' them it might break up our friendly relations. He'll think we don't trust him."

"Well, we don't," replied McGuffey, doggedly.

"Well, we do," snapped Captain Scraggs.

There is always something connected with the use of that pronoun of kings which eats like a canker at the heart of men of the McGuffey breed. That officer now spat on the deck, in defiance of the rules of his superior officers, and glared at Captain Scraggs.

"Speak for yourself, you miserable little wart," he roared. "If you include me on that cannibals' visitin' list, and go to contradictin' me agin, I'll—"

"Mac," interrupted Mr. Gibney, angrily, "control yourself. It's agin the rules to have rag-chewin' and back-bitin' on the Maggie II. Remember our motto: 'All for one and one for all'!"

"Here comes that sneakin' bushy-headed murderer back to the vessel," interrupted McGuffey. "I wonder what devilment he's up to now."

Mr. McGuffey was partly right, for in a few minutes Tabu-Tabu came alongside, climbed aboard, and saluted. Mr. Gibney, fearful of McGuffey's inability to control his antipathy for the race, beckoned Captain Scraggs and Tabu-Tabu to follow him down into the cabin. Meanwhile, McGuffey contented himself by parading backward and forward across the fo'castle head with a Mauser rifle in the hollow of his arm and his person fairly bristling with pistols and cutlasses. Whenever one of the flotilla of canoes hove to at a respectful distance, showed signs of crossing an imaginary deadline drawn by McGuffey, he would point his rifle at them and swear horribly. He scowled at Tabu-Tabu when that individual finally emerged from the conference with Mr. Gibney and Scraggs and went over the side to his waiting canoe.

WHAT THE CHILDREN WANTED

One Might Think It Was Not Altogether Miss Willet's Golden Voice That Entranced Them.

An entertainment was being given in the village school. When the program was half over the faces of the scholars shone with agreeable anticipation, for the next item was to be a vocal solo by Miss Willet, who on many occasions had delighted the school with her singing.

Finally the chairman made the announcement: "I am very sorry to say, children, that Miss Willet has contracted a cold and will be unable to sing. She is willing, however, to recite a poem instead if you wish to hear it. Do you?"

Several heads in the rear of the room became grouped as if in earnest conversation. Then they evidently elected a spokesman. "Please, sir," said the boy, "if Miss Willet don't mind, we'd rather have her get up an' try to sing; and if her throat's too sore to make a noise she can make her funny faces while the planner plays the tune."—London Tit-Bits.

"Why did you strike this haberdasher's clerk?"

"Your honor," said the large, uncouth person, "he showed me a collar and said it was a 'perfect dear.'"

"Well," snorted the judge, "what did you hit him in the store for? Couldn't you wait until after closing time and catch him in an alley?"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Clear Case.

"I don't take prohibition cases," said the lawyer.

"But I'm an innocent man, I tell you. I'm charged with having liquor in my possession, but I'm the person who called up the police department and stated that I had found twenty-four quarts of Scotch buried in my backyard."

"You say you called up the police and let them carry off that Scotch when you might have concealed it in a hundred different places and defied the true owner to get possession of it?"

"Certainly."

"Well, you must be innocent. I'll engage to defend you."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LIFE OF POPE BENEDICT HAS SUDDEN ENDING

Bronchial Affection, Not Considered Serious, Developed Into Pneumonia.

NOT LONG ON PAPAL THRONE

Elevation to Head of the Church Took Place in 1914—War Which He Vainly Sought to End Affected Him Deeply.

Rome.—Pope Benedict XV is dead. From a slight cold, which had not been regarded as anything serious, double pneumonia developed, and the physicians in attendance had given up hope for the recovery of their distinguished patient. Their bulletins had in a measure prepared the world for the sad event, which occurred early Sunday.

He had lapsed into delirium earlier in the day and failed to recognize any one at the bedside, and during the early hours of the forenoon death was expected within a few hours.

The pope was in extreme weakness and restless. Lying with closed eyes, he murmured "Peace, peace," evidently alluding subconsciously to the great mission of the pontificate in war time.

Tragic Scene at Dawn. Other undistinguished messages fell from his lips from time to time, but his vitality had sunk so low that he spoke in the weakest of whispers. The day dawned upon a tragic scene at the Vatican. The papal court joined the cardinals in prayer. Outside in the piazza of St. Peter's a crowd of reverent men and women, mostly kneeling with faces heavenward, uttered their supplications for the recovery of the Holy Father.

The four attending physicians did all in their power to relieve his sufferings, but they could hold out no hope for ultimate recovery. The strain was telling on all. In the anteroom off the sick-chamber high prelates of the church, faces drawn with the agony of their sorrow, prayed without cessation.

Suffers Great Pain. At 8 a. m. the Holy Father was still breathing, but was in great pain and suffering agonized contractions of the throat. A brief bulletin was issued saying:

"His holiness is weaker. The symptoms of pneumonia have extended."

By this time all hope had been abandoned and the most optimistic of the Vatican entourage had come to realize that the end was a matter of hours if not minutes.

When the pope lost consciousness late Friday afternoon the attending physicians did not hesitate in expressing their fears that death was at hand.

The pope had been sinking all day, due to inflammation of the lungs and weak heart action, but had retained consciousness. When he sank into a state of coma, after many hours of patient suffering, all preparations had been made and all pre-death ceremonies completed.

Shortly before noon the Vatican announced that the pontiff had requested the last sacraments, realizing that he was dying.

Throughout the afternoon he was kept alive by use of oxygen and artificial heart stimulants. At night the four physicians at the pontiffal bedside administered these restoratives at frequent intervals.

Shortly after noon Mgr. Zampani administered the last sacrament. Cardinal Merry Del Val, who, as cardinal chamberlain, assumes papal authority until a new pope is elected, assumed permanent residence at the Vatican.

Cardinal Giorgi began recitation of the prayers for the dying at 10 o'clock Friday morning. This was the official beginning of the grand penitentiary ceremonial.

At 11 o'clock official notice of the grave condition of the Holy Father was sent to the Italian government.

Cardinal Gasparri was notified as soon as it was ascertained that the condition of his holiness was critical. The cardinal, in tears, hurried to the bedside of the pontiff.

When the papal secretary of state arrived the pope was resting tranquilly and immediately requested that the last sacraments be administered. His holiness was conscious and calm as Mgr. Zampani read the ceremony. The pope then continued fully conscious, but owing to his weakened condition, only a small drop of holy water was placed on his tongue. The few cardinals gathered about the pontiff's bedside recited the Psalms in subdued tones while the ceremony lasted.

The grand penitentiary of the sacred college, surrounded by assistants, then approached the bedside and read to the pontiff the profession of faith as formulated by the Vatican and the Trent councils.

Monks Recite Formulas. Cardinal Giorgi, after reading the profession of faith, gave to the pontiff the absolution in articulo mortis. As though to impress on every one within hearing the solemnity of the occasion, the words of the formula were pronounced slowly.

The heads of all the various religious orders in Rome then entered the sick-chamber. One by one they bestowed on the pope the indulgences of the various orders which each represented. Throughout the ceremony a profound silence pervaded the room, which was broken only by the low voice of each aged monk as he recited the formula for his order.

Following the ceremony the procession slowly returned to the Basilica of St. Peter. Only the domestic prelates, whose duty it is to assist the pontiff until his death, remained around the sick man.

Groups of nuns and monks belonging to nearly all of the religious orders having convents or monasteries in Rome gathered in the space extending from the great bronze doors of the Vatican to the top of the Scala Regia, praying for the pope.

HAD FILLED HIGH POSITIONS
Pope Benedict Prominent in Church Councils Before His Elevation to the Papal Throne.

Pope Benedict XV rose to the supreme head of the Catholic church Sept. 6, 1914, less than six months after he was elevated to the cardinalship. He was born of noble parents at Pogil, near Genoa, Italy, Nov. 21, 1854. His father was Marquis Della Chiesa.

Educated at Capronian college and the Academy of Ecclesiastics, he was ordained to the priesthood in 1878. He was taken to Madrid, Spain, by Cardinal Rampolla, and for four years was secretary of the nunciature in Spain. In 1901 he was appointed consultant of the holy office and in 1907 Pope Pius gave him the appointment of archbishop of the see of Bologna. He was made a cardinal in May, 1914.

Pope Benedict was much affected by the horrors and sorrow of the World war and many times tried to bring about peace negotiations. Germany's violation of Belgium's neutrality filled him with great sorrow and after the sinking of the Lusitania, he telegraphed the German emperor telling his abhorrence of the deed.

Pope Benedict's first appeal for peace was issued one week after his coronation. The appeal failed to bring results, as did also his later plan for a Christmas truce. In January and in July, 1915, he again tried to bring about peace negotiations. In March, 1916, he repeated his attempts and in May of the same year suggested that America should act as conciliator between the warring nations. His note to President Wilson to this effect reached Washington when Germany and the United States were involved in a diplomatic crisis. The Vatican approved of President Wilson's peace note in 1917, but three months later the United States entered the war.

The Pope's most memorable appeal for peace was issued in his own handwriting on August 8, 1917, and asked belligerent rulers to end the struggle. During the peace conference his pleas were issued in behalf of weaker nations.

Just before the conference President Wilson had a private conference with Pope Benedict at the Vatican in which many questions of a social and international nature were discussed.

The settlement of the 700-year-old Irish problem was received with great pleasure by the pope, who issued a message congratulating the principals in the negotiations.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Advertisement.

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

Don't Fear Aspirin IF IT IS GENUINE Look for Name "Bayer" on Tablets, Then You Need Never Worry.

To get genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" you must look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on each package and on each tablet.

The "Bayer Cross" means true, world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over twenty-one years, and proved safe by millions for Cold, Headache, Earache, Toothache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for Pain in general. Proper and safe directions are in each unbroken "Bayer" package.—Advertisement.

So Much for So Little Money

It is still causing great surprise that the making of Dr. Price's Baking Powder with Phosphate instead of Cream of Tartar permits such an excellent baking powder to be sold at 25c. for a large-size 12-oz. can. But a greater surprise is in the good, light, wholesome home-baking it produces.

DR. PRICE'S PHOSPHATE BAKING POWDER 25c

For a large size can, 12 oz.

The following recipe will give a hint of the wealth of good things in the New Dr. Price Cook Book, which every woman should have.

COCOANUT LAYER CAKE

3/4 cup shortening	1 egg	1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar	1 cup milk	3 teaspoons Dr. Price's Baking Powder
1 teaspoon vanilla extract	2 cups flour

Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, add flavoring and well-beaten egg; add milk; mix well; then add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together. Bake in three greased layer cake tins in moderate oven 12 to 15 minutes.

COCOANUT FILLING AND ICING

1 1/2 cups granulated sugar	3/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
3/4 cup water	1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 egg whites	1 cup fresh grated cocoanut

Cook sugar and water over slow fire without stirring until syrup spins a thread; pour slowly over egg whites which have been beaten until stiff; beat until thick enough to spread; add flavoring. Spread between layers and on top of cake. While icing is still soft sprinkle thickly with cocoanut.

Ask your grocer if he has an extra copy of this new Cook Book. If he hasn't, write to Price Baking Powder Factory, 1001 Independence Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois, and we will gladly mail you one.

Glacier Movements Differ.

The most rapidly moving glacier of the Alps, the Mer de Glace, travels at the rate of 35 1/2 inches a day. The slowest Alpine glaciers travel less than an inch a day. Much faster movements are found in the polar regions. The Upernivik glacier, in Greenland, travels 99 feet a day near the end where it reaches the sea.

DEVINE WINS PRAISE

In a report of the legislative voters league, which keeps tab on the bunch in Springfield called legislators, Devine is the only one who gets a real good O. K. The report on this, the thirty-fifth senatorial district is as follows:

HARRY G. WRIGHT, senator—Voting record rather mixed; voted for resolution approving Small policies against proposed investigation of Chicago city hall expenditures; failed to vote on bill to maintain state civil service system.

JOHN H. BYERS—Missed few roll calls and showed some discrimination in voting; record fairly creditable.

ALBERT T. TOURTILLIOT—Gave careful attention to duties; record as a whole was creditable.

JOHN P. DEVINE—As Democratic floor leader he was fearless and tireless in pointing out shortcomings of Thompson-Small regime and in opposing measures he considered objectionable; by rallying most of the Democratic members in opposition to anti-civil service bill he had much to do with its defeat; also had important part in preventing greater increase in tax rates. —Sycamore Tribune.

Material of Comets' Tails.

Exactly what comets' tails are made of is one of the unsolved problems of astronomy, but the theory most generally accepted is that they are formed from particles of the comet itself, forced away by the pressure of sunlight, as they apparently increase in size and activity the nearer the comet gets to the sun.

TOMMY KIT'S DREAM.

MRS. TABBY felt highly insulted one morning when she went into the barn and found five traps placed near holes where the mice lived. "The very idea," said Mrs. Tabby to her four kittens. "Just as if I could not attend to this without these traps around."

"Children, I want you to pay strict attention to what I say, for you are now old enough to help, and it may be that I have given more time to playing with you than to my work. Now you must help. I want each of you to watch near one of these traps and when a mouse runs out of its hole don't let him get into the trap—CATCH HIM."

After telling her children this, Mrs. Tabby sat down to watch near the fifth trap herself and soon all were so busy watching for a mouse that they forgot each other.

Tommy Kit, however, grew tired of watching and after staring hard a long time at the hole he was to watch he grew sleepy and, curling up on the floor, soon was fast asleep.

Tommy Kit had the mouse on his mind, though, and in his dream he thought two fat mice ran out of the hole he was set to watch. Up jumped Tommy Kit and pounced upon them, catching a mouse in each paw.

"I guess none of the others will be as smart as I am," dreamed Tommy

Kit. "I'll run right off to mother and show her what a smart son she has."

"CLICK!" Tommy Kit opened his eyes and there in the trap was a mouse, and at the sound his brothers and mother turned and looked. Tommy felt very much ashamed, for there was not a mouse in the other four traps.

"Why did you let him get past you?" scolded his mother. "Your brothers have each caught one. I am ashamed that a child of mine should be so stupid."

"But I did catch two," said Tommy Kit, not quite sure he had dreamed it. "I had one in each paw when the trap clicked. I could not catch three, mother, now could I, for I have only two front paws?"

"Two mice at the same time!" exclaimed his mother.

Tommy Kit was now wide awake. "I—I guess I dreamed it," he said. "I dreamed I caught two mice, one in each paw, and I was just going to show them to you when the trap clicked."

Mrs. Tabby quickly boxed her son on the ear. "You fell asleep, did you?" she said. "Now you sit here and catch two mice before you get a drop of milk."

Off trotted Mrs. Tabby with her other children, while Tommy sat sadly watching the hole. Out ran three mice and Tommy ran after them. He caught one and then seeing the other hiding behind a barrel he quickly went after that, while a third was so frightened he ran right into the trap.

"I could not help it mother," exclaimed Tommy Kit, as he proudly displayed the mice.

"That is all traps are good for," said Mrs. Tabby, "to catch the third mouse while you are chasing two, and now you children must catch two mice and drive the third into a trap. We will soon clear this place and be rid of these insulting traps as well."

But it was not long before all the kittens were sprawled out in the sun fast asleep, for they had cleared the mice from the barn; but Tommy, if he had any more dreams, did not tell them to his mother.

Editors in Class by Themselves.

The doctor can bury his mistakes, the dentist can plug his up with gold and charge it to the patient, and the lawyer gets a chance to try his case over when he finds an error, but with us it is different. When we make a mistake we have to climb the barbed wire fence and get over on the other side to make things right with our customers—we can't ask him to do it. The little extra care and attention necessary to do things right are therefore very important.—Selected.
