Lynches a British Citizen.

When the full facts of the lynching of Daniel Knox at Scranton, Miss., last week, come out at the trials of the men who have been arrested for accomplishing his death, a sensational turn is expected. Three companies of the state militia have been ordered to the scene, to protect witnesses and officials. The widow of Knox, who is in Mobile, Ala., claims that her husband was innocent of any intention to kill his stepson, and that he was hanged by the mob without a shadow of justice. She has appealed to the British consul there, Mr. A. S. Benn, for an inquiry into the death of her husband, who was a Canadian, and it is understood that representations have been made to Washington concerning the case. Wholesale arrests are expected when the militia arrives to support the authorities.

Kills Son and Burns Houses.

Murder, suicide, and wholesale destruction of property were the results of Henry Warn's insane fury Friday morning. Warn was a German farmer living six miles north of Denison. He became seized with a savage desire to kill and destroy. He killed his son, William, aged 21, burned the house, and then proceeded systematically to set fire to everything he possessed. He destroyed the farm waterworks, fastened his cattle, hogs, and chickens securely, and set fire to every building on the place. While he was at his work neighbors, seeing the smoke, rushed to the place, but he drew a revolver. fired several shots, and drove them away. After firing the remaining buildings he went into the burning barn and his charred body was found among the bodies of the horses.

Ingersoll Is in Heaven.

Luther R. Marsh of Middleton, N. Y., who was an ardent admirer of Robert G. Ingersoll, believes he has had several spiritual messages from the great infidel through the mediumship of Clarissa J. Huyler, with whom he boards. The first message was received several months ago, and was merely to the effect that there is a life beyond the grave and that death does not end all. It contained also an expression of regret that he might have influenced others to unbelief. Later messages have conveyed the assurances that through some miracle all of the great unbeliever's scoffings and railings have been forgiven and that he has been received into heaven.

Severely Hurt in Nightmare.

While struggling in a nightmare in a sleeping car E. B. Stewttinius of Chicago put his foot through a window and severed an artery. Before medical aid could be summoned he became very weak from loss of blood. The accident happened on the Chicago and St. Louis express, east of Johnstown. When Pittsburg was reached the injured man was conveyed to the West Penn Hospital, where he now is.

Baseball in Cuban Capital.

The new Spanish baseball court was opened at Havana, Cuba, Monday, General Wood and a number of gov ernment officials attending the cere mony. Mgr. Sbarrettti, bishop of Havana, blessed the structure, which is the largest of the kind in the world and cost $100,000. The promoters hope that baseball will replace bull fighting in the affections of the Cubans.

Pingree to Carry a Rifle.

Hazen S. Pingree of Michigan has applied to the state department at Washington for a passport to travel in the Transvaal and for a license to carry a rifle. He says he is going to inspect mines. Secretary Hay referred him to Minister Choate for the rifle license.

Will Head Milliken University.

A. R. Taylor, president of the Kansas State Normal School, announces his resignation, effective in April, to accept the presidency of the James Millikin University, a Cumberland Presbyterian college now building at Decatur, Ill.

Two Naval Officers Retired.

Two prominent naval officers have been placed on the retired list by oneration of the law on account of age. They are Rear Admiral Philip C. Hichborn, who has been chief of the bureau of construction and repair for the past eight years, and Pay Inspector H. G. Colby, one of the ranking officers of the pay corps. Paymaster Inspector Colby is a native of Vermont and entered the navy as an acting assistant paymaster in 1863. He reached the highest grade in the corps in April,

Saturday, March 2,

The first Sunday session of the Fifty-sixth congress was held by the senate. It will not appear in the Congressional Record as a session of Sunday, as the senate was working under the legislative day of Saturday, and will continue so to work until the session was declared adjourned finally at noon Monday. Closing hours of house marked by exciting debates Sunday. Representative Hepburn assailed river and harbor bill. The house, still in the legislative day of Friday, was in ression from 2 to 6 Sunday afternoon, and in the evening from 8 o'clock it worked on into the night to dispose to the army bill, after which voting of the conference reports which crowded in upon it. Several interesting bills were introduced in the house. Two of them called for the employment of convicts to help make good roads in Illinois. One of the convict labor bills was introduced by Reoresentative Drew of Joliet. The measure was drawn up by R. W. Richardson, secretary of the National Good Roads association. It provides that all able-bodied convicts, not otherwise employed in labor for the state, shall be put to work quarrying, crushing and screening stone to be used for roadbeds.

There is every prospect that this session of the legislature will be from two to four weeks longer than had been planned by the republican steering committee. A resolution was adopted in the house this morning extending to April 1 the time for closing the introduction of bills. The committee on rules had put the "stop time" at March 3; today's resolution adds three weeks to the life of the bill-introducing machinery. The senate did not work today, and will do nothing until March 12.

NOTES OF THE SESSIONS.

A constitutional amendment abolishina the state board of equalization is pr posed by a joint resolution offered the legislature by Clayton E. Crafts. I nis request it was referred to the com on revenue. The resolution re cites that the revenue to be raised by taxation shall be apportioned among the rious companies on a percentage e rate to be ascertained by div the sum of the gross revenue raised in each county during the preceding year by the sum of the gross revenue raised by the sum of the gross revenue raised in the whole state. The details of this method for enactment into a statute are left for the legislature. A novelty in this proposed constitutional amendment is the authorization of the general assembly to provide for "local option in taxation in each county by the affirmative votes of a majority of the electors thereof, provided that all taxation shall be uniform as to the class of property and persons against which it may be levied. This would give a county the right to tax separately property not now reached, as for example mortgages, also to intro-duce new methods of taxation, such as the so-called single tax.

The house has passed its first piece of legislation, apart from appropriation bills -an amendment to the primary election law enacted two years ago for the ben-etit of the country districts, which found the Cook county law too expensive. The amendment simply provides for the printing of the ballots, and has an emergency clause so that it takes effect in time for the spring primaries in small cities which England's Oldest Church Edifice It is generally conceded that the oldest church edifice in England is the Winchester Cathedral. The history of this structure is older than the authentic history of Britain itself. It is said to have been erected in the year 177, by Lucius, a British King, who was converted to Christianity. It was destroyed during the persecution of Aurelian, and rebuilt in 293. In 519 Cerdic converted the cathedral into a temple of the Saxon gods. Some of the most substantial walls and pillars of the present structure were erected by St. Ethelwold, who completed a restoration of the cathedral in 980 and dedicated it to St. Swithin. In 1979, having been much damaged by the Danes, it was repaired by Bishop Walkelin, who built the present tower, with part of the nave and transepts, and in 1093 rededicated the church to St. Peter, St. Paul and St. Swithin. The east end, from the great east window, was rebuilt about a century afterward, by Bishop Godfrey de Lucy; and the whole of the west end was repaired and renewed by Bishop Edgington and Wykeham, to the latter of whom the grandeur of the west front is due.

Mrs. Doty, of Highland, Iowa, Restored to Health-A Miraculous Case-Hes Husband Is Cured of Bright's Disease by Same Means.

Highland, Ia., March 4.—(Special.)— Friends of Mrs. W. H. Doty are very much pleased to notice the wonderful improvement in her condition. For eighteen years she has been a sufferer from rheumatism, and the torture she has endured during this time is past all description. Mrs. Doty tells the following story:

"I have suffered for the past eighteen years with Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism. I have tried doctors, patent medicines, plasters, liniments, electric treatments, and nothing did me any good. I had nearly lost all faith in anything, when I sent for six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I said to my husband I expected that it was some more money thrown away, but when I had taken them a week I could see that they were helping me. The lameness I had suffered with for so long is nearly all gone. It is not a quarter as bad as it was. For years I had to wear a warm bandage around my forehead to prevent the pain. Since using the Pills I have been able to remove this altogether.

"I cannot find words to express my heartfelt thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills for their wonderful cure of my case. My husband has suffered from Kidney Trouble for years. Last spring a doctor said he had Bright's Disease, and treated him, but he received no benefit, and he kept growing thinner and weaker all the time. When I got Dodd's Kidney Pills he commenced taking four a day. He has taken them three months and is nearly well. H's strength is increased, and the improvement in his case is almost miraculous. Dodd's Kidney Pills have certainly been a God send to us."

It is just cases like those of Mr. and Mrs. Doty that have made Dodd's Kidney Pills so very popular in Iowa.

J. J. COMPANION

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.) "Were you looking for anything, Mason?"

"There! then you heard me shut the drawer!" said Mason, with smiling sincerity. "Yes, miss. Mrs. Mortimer that I've mislaid somewhere, and I could almost have declared for certain that I had left them in that righthand drawer of yours before you came." 'There were no rings there," said

Janetta coldly.

When Mason left the room Janetta opened the drawer and peered in. There were gloves and handkerchiefs, which had evidently not been touched; but on the top of all were Neville's letters, which Janetta kept bound together by an elastic band. One of them had been taken from the packet, and was half drawn from its envelope, and thrown back hastily into the

"It's very queer and uncomfortable," thought Janetta. "I can't conceive what object the girl has in wishing to read my letters. She shall not have the privilege! I don't want any one here to guess how anxious I am about the boy. I wish I were sure that he morning, but that her heart was full of had broken with all his old friends; no effort of mine will keep him straight if he won't try himself."

She slipped the letter back into the packet, locked the drawer, and put the kev into her pocket. Her earthly paradise seemed failing her all in a minute. Then she remembered how often she had found Mrs. Mortimer's eyes fixed upon her when she received one of Neville's letters with a queer, suspicious expression in them; and she laughed aloud as the thought darted through her mind that possibly Mrs. away from me, and he may be going Mortimer was crediting her with a to his death!" "young man" of her own, and was ready to make mischief about him.

But, even if this were so, it did not explain the reason why Mason should be foraging about among her letters. She finally decided to make no mention of what had occurred, but to he careful about keeping her possessions under lock and key for the future.

Clarice was not at all well for the next few days, so that it was not difficult for Janetta to avoid any intimate conversation with Captain Merivale.

Her latent suspicion of Mason was fanned into a flame by the fact that to answer her brother's letter. one afternoon, when she ran in late from the town, having gone on some commission for Clarice, she heard voices talking in the shrubbery near. yet, was she so greatly to be pitied? One of the voices was a man's, the other Mason's.

"It seems to me, Miss Howard, that you are making mountains out of molebills," said Mrs. Mortimer calmly. "Mason is an excellent servant, most civil and obliging; her character is beyond suspicion.

Janetta, a little hotly. "Has she a young man, do you know?"

'Oh, yes.' Is there a law of the Medes and Persians that parlor maids turning color, was inclined to run away should be exempt from love-affairs?" asked Mrs. Mortimer. "She's engaged to a very respectable fellow who does not live here. Indeed, I happen to know that he's not in the place at present, for she only asked my leave today for a few days holiday to go and visit his people. She told me that she had not seen him for more than six months. I really think, Miss Howard, that it will be wiser if you leave the management of the house and servants to me.'

"Certainly I will in future," replied Janetta, swallowing her vaxation; "but it is the second time that I have had suspicions about Mason's straightforwardness."

"A letter for you, miss," said a voice behind her, and Mason, with a perfectly immovable face, handed her a letter on a silver waiter. It was from Neville, and Janetta slipped it into her pocket; and she felt somehow as if her actions were noted alike by both Mason and Mrs. Mortimer.

"Straightforwardness, indeed!" muttered Mrs. Mortimer angrily, when Janetta bade her good-night and went off to her room. "She's none too straightforward herself, with letters from one man nearly every day of her life, and playing fast-and-loose with Miss Seymour's lover under her very eyes, only she's too infatuated to see it." It will be seen that Mrs. Mortimer was letting her jealousy run away with her judgment.

That letter made Janetta very anxtous and miserable. It was an urgent demand for money. "I literally haven't a copper to bless | Janetta paused for a moment. myself with," wrote Neville. "The landlady's using awful language, and if you can't help me I believe soon she'll turn me out into the street. "I salary yet; but isn't there some more

I mean to throw up this clerkship!" For once in her life the softening was asking me for some certain rings; veil of almost motherly love and affection that Janetta had for her brother was torn aside, and she saw him as he was-weak, selfish, unscrupulous. She knew that she had left him with enough money to keep him in comfort for two months at least, and the aret was not yet over.

All through the night she lay tossing and wretched, wondering what to do for the best. In the wide world she had not a single friend of whom she could ask advice. Fifty pounds was all that was left of the wreck of their little fortune, and she dare not draw it out.

Supposing that by any unforeseen circumstance she was thrown out of her present situation, she must have some small reserve fund, so that she could support herself until she could obtain something else.

Clarice would have been the first to notice her heavy eyes the following her own troubles.

"He's going tomorrow, Janetta," she said, when the girl entered her room. "I can't think what is the matter with I never cry at the thought of his going; but today I could sob my heart out. I've a weight like lead on it. I feel something as if I had come to an end of it all.

"An end of what?" questioned Janetta kindly.

"Of life-or, rather, of the love

"You can trust him to God's hands," said Janetta gently.

"Oh he may forget me." "You trust him too well to think of that.' "I shall feel that he has passed beyond my reach; there is something which seems to warn me that I am losing him forever." When Clarice was dressed and carried to her boudoir, Harry Merivale came and sat down by her, and Janetta watched the restless look die out of Clarice's face, all doubt and discontent dispelled by the sunshine of her lover's presence. Then she slipped quietly from the room, and went to the study

She did not begin it at once, her heart was full of her friend, and her misery at her lover's departure; and She thought of the adoration she had seen written but now upon her features, of the tender, loving sympathy

"I'm sorry—I'm afraid I've intruced upon you," he stammered.

"Yes-no-at least, it doesn't matter," said Janetta. "I'm in trouble, but no one can help me out of it. What did Miss Seymour wish?"

"Forgive me," said Harry gently; "but in your great kindness the other day you assigned to me the position of friend. If you feel me to be such, can't I help you? If you are alone in the world, as Clarice hinted to me one day, it is possible that just a common, everyday fellow like myself may be of use to you, might give you advice, for example, on any business matter that is bothering you."

There was a dawning hope in Janetta's heart that here was the friend she needed; this kind, capable, cultured man of the world would be able to tell her what was the really wise thing to do about Neville.

"I have one brother, and I'm in trouble about him," she said simply. "Yes," said Harry, seating himself in a chair with grave attention. Then bit by bit Janetta told him the story, just the simple facts; and Harry, as he listened, saw how the girl's life had been one long self-sacrifice, and offering for the salvation of another, who apparently declined to be saved. His heart burned with indignation.

"And you wish to know if it is right to throw good money after bad, to rob yourself of your last farthing so that your brother may be saved for a week or two longer from the consequences of his own wilfulness?" he said, when

"It does not seem to me a difficult question to decide. If you want to complete that young fellow's ruin, you will go on letting him depend upon know you won't want to draw any you as he has done hitherto. in order to supplement it. Mind, I think it is a wholly wrong principle for a brother to take help from a sister; but, still, you have promised to help him. Very well, stick to the exact letter of your promise, and don't go a farthing beyond it.

"I'm passing through town tomorrow, and will go and see him if you like. It might not hurt him to hear the opinion of a man about his behavior. "Oh, no!" cried Janetta quickly. "I could not bear to think that I had ever discussed him with anybody. It is the first time in my life that I have done it, and I'm only driven to it now because I am at my wits' end."

"Well, then, write him a short, wholesome refusal. You can't think what good it does. It brings a young fellow to his bearings," said the Captain, with a smile, remembering such a refusal himself.

Janetta rose. "I can't thank you enough. I must have been fanciful the other day, but I was silly enough to think that you were vexed with me when I said I hoped always to keep you and Miss Seymour as friends."

Harry looked down at the beautiful, wistful face with an odd twitching of his own.

"You drive me hard," he said. "Shall I tell you something, that you, and you alone, are the cause of my sudden departure to-morrow, that there are moments in the life of a man when all he can do is to run away?

"Miss Howard, I did not know upon what rock I was drifting until that appeal of yours to my friendship; and then, like a flash of lightning, the true state of things was revealed to me. Friendship with you? Impossible! Friendship could not satisfy me! Had been free-she snatched them from him and flew from the room. Just outside the door she cannoned against Mrs. Mortimer, who glanced at the girl's red eyes and dishevelled hair with cynical contempt.

"Is Captain Merivale in the study?" she asked. "Miss Seymour wants to speak to him before he goes out.'

Janetta did not stop to answer, but ran upstairs to her room; and Mrs. Mortimer heard the key-turn in the lock.

A very agony of shame shook Janetta's whole frame, and she threw herself sobbing on her knees. A mist of falsehood and wrongdoing seemed enveloping her like a cloak, and for the first time in her life she found it difficult to discern right from wrong. Her heart was her witness that she had intended to do no hurt to the friend to whom she was bound by every tie of gratitude and affection, and yet Captain Merivale's unfinished sentence had awakened an answering echo in her heart, had roused her to the awful knowledge that she, on her side, loved him with an intensity as great as Clarice's own.

"I can redeem the past. I am sure it's not too late for that!" she said, springing to her feet in feverish misery. "He has no clue as to my ing for him-that is my own secret: and when he gets away from me he will return, as in honor bound, to his proper allegiance. He leaves tomorrow and I need never see him again.'

Turntable for Trolley Cars.

A turntable for trolley cars has been patented by an Ohio inventor. It is so arranged that when the car is driven on it the front wheels rest upon two rollers coming up through the track and, by gently starting the motors, these revolve under the car and communicate their motion through proper gearing to the turntable itself, and thus the car is turned around by its own power, the trolley swivelling on its base and staying on the wire. The crew of the car do not have to descend from it, and it is asserted that the apparatus works very quickly and successfully in practice.

Curzon's Visit to Goa.

Lord Curzon recently paid a state visit to Goa, the little Portuguese colony in western India. He entered the territory by rail, but Lad, Curzon went thither by sea in the Indian marine steamer Olive. They were received with full honors by the governor-general of Portuguese India, Col. A teacher in Grundy county, Missouri, determined that his pupils should adopt what he termed as reformed pronunciation, among other things, that "mamma" and "pappa" must have the accent on the last syllable. Then he wrote this sentence on the board: "Mamma see what a pretty rose I have." On asking for correction of this sentence a speckle-faced, bullet-headed young gentleman suggested: "You want to put a commah after mammah, I guess." Right here the teacher abandoned his

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SUBJECT - THE GOSPEL AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

From the Text: "The Children of This XVI, Verse 8-The Church and Press.

(Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopsch.) Washington, March 3.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage calls for a warm friendship between those who preach the gospel and those who make newspapers, the spoken word and the printed word to go side by side; text, Luke xvi., 8, "The children of this world are numerable the prayers offered for the in their generation wiser than the children of light."

Sacred stupidity and solemn incompetency and sanctified laziness are here rebuked by Christ. He says worldlings are wider awake for opportunities than are Christians. Men of the world grab occasions, while Christian people let the most valuable occasions drift by unimproved. That is the meaning of our Lord when he says, "The children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light."

The Plain Truth. A marked illustration of the truth of that maxim is in the slowness of the Christian religion to take possession of the secular printing press. The opportunity is open and has been for some time open, but the ecclesiastical courts and the churches and the ministers of religion are for the most part allowing the golden opportunity to pass unimproved. That the opportunity is open I declare from the fact that all the secular newspapers are glad of any religious facts or statistics that you present them. Any animated and stirring article relating to religious themes they would gladly print. They thank you for any information in regard to churches. If a wrong has been done to any Christian church or Christian institution you could go into any newspaper office of the land and have the real truth stated. Dedication services. ministerial ordinations and pastoral installations, cornerstone laying of a church, anniversary of a charitable society, will have reasonable space in any secular journal if it have previous notice given. If I had some great injustice done me, there is not an editorial or a reportorial room in the United States into which I could not go and get myself set right, and that is true of any well-known Christian man. Why, then, does not our glorious Christianity embrace these magnificent opportunities? I have before me a subject of first and last importance: How mighty reinforcement to religion and make of the types.

the pulpit? Indiscriminate Hostility.

The first thing toward this result is cessation of indiscriminate hostility against newspaperdom. You might as well denounce the legal profession because of the shysters, or the medical profession because of the quacks, or merchandise because of the swindling bargain makers, as to slambang newspapers because there are recreant editors and unfair reporters and unclean columns. Of all the prayers offered for classes of men inmost potential class will be so few and rare that they will be thought a preacher's idiosyncrasy. There are many journalists in our church memberships, but this world will never be brought to God until some revival of religion sweeps over the land and takes into the kingdom of God all editors, reporters, compositors, pressmen and newsboys. The Disciples as Reporters. That Providence intends the profession of reporters to have a mighty share in the world's redemption is what you are really worth, and you suggested by the fact that Paul and cannot be puffed up, and you cannot | Christ took a reporter along with them be written down, and if you are the and he reported their addresses and their acts. Luke was a reporter, and come out, and if you are the friend of he wrote not only the book of Luke, good society, that fact will be estab- but the Acts of the Apostles, and without that reporter's work we would have known nothing of the Pentecost and nothing of Stephen's martyrdom, lar press as a mightier reinforcement | and nothing of Tabitha's resurrection and nothing of the jailing and unjailing of Paul and Silas, and nothing of the shipwreck at Melita. Strike out the reporter's work from the Bible and you kill a large part of the New Testament. It makes me think that in the future of the kingdom of God the graduates of colleges, with families to reporters are to bear a mighty part.

When the music began he began, and with his pencil he derided that and then derided great population that tramp up and the prayer and then derided the reading of the Scriptures and then began to deride the sermon. But, he says, for some reason his hand began to tremble, and he, rallying himself, sharpened his pencil and started again, and broke down again and then put pencil and paper in his pocket and his head down on the front of the pew and began to pray. At the close of the service he came up and asked for the prayers of others and gave his heart to God, and, though still engaged in newspaper work, he is an evangelist and hires a hall at his own expense and every Sunday afternoon preaches Jesus Christ to the people.

Words of Encouragement.

O men of the pencil and pen, amid your unappreciated work you need encouragement and you can have it. Printers of all Christendom, editors, reporters, compositors, pressmen, publishers and readers of that which is printed, resolve that you will not write, set up, edit, issue or read anything that you had better get out of our that debases body, mind or soul. These rafts were left year after year and travelers maintain that the river found itself powerless against an obstacle like this, the result being that the river and lake have become dry and that what was once fertile agricultural region is now bleak and barren. Formerly there were several villages near the lake, but now these, too, have vanished, and only a few cattle kraals are to be seen. "And it will be impossible to restore the lake," says S. Parrarge, who visited the place recently. "since in its present condition it would require more water than the river could give it. Lake Ngami is gons forever."

Fruit of Friendship.

A principal fruit of friendship is the ease and discharge of the fullness and swellings of the heart, which passions of all kinds do cause and induce. We know diseases of stoppings and suffocations are the most dangerous in the body; and it is not much otherwise in the mind. You may take sarsa to open the liver, steel to open the spleen, flower of sulphur for the lungs, castoreum for the brain; but no receipt openeth the heart but a true friend, to whom you may impart griefs, joys, fears, hopes, suspicions, counsels, and whatsoever lieth upon the heart to oppress it, in a kind of civil shrift or confession.-Francis Bacon.

How He Earned His Title.

The dean of Christ church, in the '30s, was known as "Presence of Mind" Smith. A well-known tradition explained the same. Going down to Nuneham with a friend in his undergraduate days, he returned alone. "Where is T---?" "Well, we had an accident. The beat leaked, and while we were bailing it T- fell over into the water. He caught hold of the skirt and pulled it down to the water's edge. Neither of us could swim, and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with the boat hook both would have been drowned."-From "Reminiscences of Oxford," by Hospitals in our great cities are sad places to visit. Three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls.

Why should this be the case?

Because they have neglected themselves. Every one of these patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back. All of these things are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb.

What a terrifying thought! these poor souls are lying there on those hospital beds awaiting a fearful operation.

Do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an examination and possible operation. ## THE CUBANS FIX A STATUS.

Island's Independence Shall Not Be

Edmited by Any Power. The constitutional convention at Havana completed its work of drawing up the clauses in the constitution referring to the relations between Cuba and the United States. The following clauses on relations were

"1. The government of Cuba will not make a treaty or agreement with any foreign power which may compromise or limit the independence of Cuba, or which may permit or authorize any power to obtain by means of colonization or for military or naval purposes, or in any other manner, any foothold or authority or right over any portion

"2. The government will not permit its territory to be used as a base of operations for war against the United States or against any foreign nation.

"3. The government of Cuba accepts in its entirety the treaty of Paris, in which are affirmed the rights of Cuba to the extent of the obligations which are explicitly indicated in these, and especially those which the international law imposes for the protection of life and property, and substitutes itself for the United States in the pledge, which they assumed in that sense, according to articles 12 and 162 of the treaty of Paris.

"4. Cuba recognizes as legally valid all acts of the military government during the period of occupation; also the rights arising out of them, in conformity with the joint resolution and the Foraker amendment and the existing laws of the country. "5. The governments of the United States and Cuba ought to regulate their commercial relations by means of a treaty based on reciprocity, and with tendencies toward free trade in natural and manufactured products, mutually assuring ample special advantages in their respective markets."

Flames Destroy a l'enitentiary.

The Nebraska state penitentiary, four miles from Lincoln, has fallen prey to flames. The fire, the origin of which is not known, broke out at midnight Thursday in the rooms in the main building occupied by the warden and his family. Before the flames had gained much headway Warden Davis gave orders to release the convicts from the cells and march them to the prison yard under double guard. The removal was accomplished safely and without disorder. Extra guards were also posted on the stockade walls, armed with shotguns, with orders to permit no escapes.

As an additional measure of safety, Lieutenant-Governor Savage, acting in the absence of Governor Dietrich, in response to the suggestion of the warden, ordered out the local company of state militia.

Life Convict Alded Firemen. Because of his earnest, heroic and inselfish aid to the members of the Lincoln (Neb.) fire department in fighting the three big fires which have assailed the state penitentiary since his life there began nine years ago, Nicholas Fox, a convict from South Omaha who is serving a life term for murder, may be pardoned shortly. The Lincoln firemen are circulating a petition which asks the governor to free Fox in consideration of his heroic work at three fires and of his honor in disdaining to avail himself of innumerable chances to escape while thus em-

Fatal Collision of Trains.

Two dead, three badly hurt and a passenger rain burned is the result of a head-on collision between passenger train No. 16, south bound, and a local freight on the Pittsburg, Virginia & Charleston railroad Thursday evening at Coal Valley, five miles from Me-Keesport, Pa.

The dead are: Frank White, engineer, of Unioutown, horribly mangled; Milton S. Thompson, mail clerk, of Brownsville, leg burned off, hurt internally, died on way to hospital.

of anguish and despair. Catarrh follows grip as effect follows

A multitude of catarrh victims will spring up in the trail of the awful epidemic of grip that has just passed over our fair country. The hope to these people is Peruna. Most people know this already.

Everyone who has had the least touch of grip, should not fail to take a course of treatment with Peruna. Peruna eradicates every vestige of the disease and leaves the system in a normal condition.

Hen. Joseph B. Crowley, Congressman from Illinols, writes from the National Hotel, Washington, D. C., as follows:

'After giving Peruna a fair trial I can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone suffering with coughs, colds, la grippe and all catarrhal complaints."—J. B. Crowley.

begins in the bowels. It's the unclean places that breed infectious epidemics. and it's the unclean body—unclean inside-that "catches" the disease. A person whose stomach and bowels are kept clean and whose liver is lively, and blood pure, is safe against yellow fever, or any other of the dreadful diseases that desolate our beautiful land. Some of the cleanest people outside are filthiest inside, and they are the ones who not only "catch" the infections, but endanger the lives of all their friends and relatives. There's only one certain way of keeping clean inside so as to prevent disease and that is to take CASCARETS. Perfect disinfectant and bowel strengtheners. All diseases are all bowel troubles. appendicitis, billousness, bad breath, bad blood, wind on the stomach, bloated bowels, foul mouth, headache, indigestion, pinaples, pains after eating, liver trouble, sallow complexion and dizziness. When your bowels don't move regularly you are getting sick. Constipation kills more people than all other diseases together. It is a starter for the chronic allneants and long years of suffering that come afterwards. No matter what ails you, start taking CASCARETS to-day, for you will never get well and be well all the time until you put your bowels right. Take our advice; start with CASCARETS to-day, under an absolute guarantee to cure or mancy refunded.

Injured by a Train.

Mrs. Richard Burton Seriously Hurt by a Train Last Evening.

Last evening Mrs. Richard Burton, of Kingston, was probably fatally hurt by being struck by St. P. milk train No, 35 while walking from here to her home. She had came up to Genoa yesterday morning and intended to return on the milk train last evening, but the train was late and she decided to walk. When near the Dutton farm the way-freight, No. 94, was approach- and respectfully solicit your support. ing from the west and she stepped over to the west-bound track out of it's way, not observing that No. 35 was close behind her. The train struck her breaking one leg and inflicting a bad wound on her head.

She is the widow of Richard Burton, deceased, of Stott street.

LATER:- Dr. Ludwig reports that Mrs. Burton is resting as well as can be expected; the greatest danger at present is from gangrene setting in as the limb is badly crushed.
